GC's Future Told At Alumni Clubs

The work of a faculty committee studying the future educational program of Goshen College has been the subject of reports at four alumni regional club meetings this winter.

John H. Liechty '42, director of alumni relations, said the new program for Christian higher education will be presented as part of the programs of regional clubs meeting this winter and spring.

At a dinner meeting at Valparaiso on Saturday evening, October 8, Mr. Liechty spoke to 30 on "A Look at Plans for the Future." Other speakers were Dr. Jonathan Roth '59, associate professor of biology, and Miss Ruth Zarria '67, a senior. Dr. Roth spoke on "A New Experience in Marine Biology," about his seminar with students in Florida during spring recess last year. Miss Zarria spoke about her summer in Ecuador in "Values of International Experience in Education."

Officers elected at the meeting were Robert Isbell '52, president; Ronald G. Gibson '58, vice-president; Mrs. Ruth Bullis '41, secretary; and Dennis M. Good '61, treasurer.

Mr. Liechty also spoke on the new plans after a buffet dinner at the Miami Hotel at Sterling, Ill. Also speaking to the 40 persons present was Dr. Atlee Beechy '35, professor of education, who recently returned from seven months of service in Vietnam as co-ordinator of Vietnam Christian Service, a relief and rehabilitation agency. Elected chairman of the Northern Illinois club was Leonard Mellinger '58.

At Bittner's Restaurant, at Somerset, Pa., 30 persons heard Prof. Marion R. Wenger '58, a member of the committee on the future of the college, speak on the proposed new educational program. The dinner, which included swiss steak and homemade bread, was on Saturday evening, November 19.

Also on the after-dinner program was Dr. Russel A. Liechty '53, dean of students, who spoke on student personnel services.

More than 80 persons attended the Wayne-Medina alumni meeting on Thursday evening, December 1. Dessert was served during a social hour at Schmid Hall, at Orr Park, in Orrville, Ohio.

Dr. Beechy told of his experiences in Vietnam, and Mr. Liechty presented the plans for GC's future.

Elected chairman for next year was Donald Sommer '52; to serve with him are Ed Herr '54 and Robert Lerch '56.

Pro Musica Set For Homecoming

The New York Pro Musica will be the talent group to present the L-M number next October 28 at Goshen College's 1967 Homecoming.

The Pro Musica, which performed at Goshen in 1960, is a small group of vocal and instrumental musicians specializing in medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque music. Their repertoire includes musical masterpieces of the age of Shakespeare and da Vinci, sacred works, songs and dances of 15th century Germany, music from Elizabethan England, music from the courts of Spain and the Low Countries, and madrigals of the Italian Renaissance.

Homecoming, 1966, an experiment to see whether alumni would take part in a tightly scheduled weekend of events, was a success. The traditional four-day Thanksgiving-Homecoming weekend is part of the past, according to John H. Liechty '42, director of alumni relations.

An intensive Homecoming schedule is again planned for the last weekend of October next fall. It will begin Friday evening, October 27, continue Saturday morning with seminars, feature a Saturday afternoon athletic event, a social hour Saturday evening, with the L-M afterward. Alumni are warmly invited to remain for worship services on Sunday.

Alumni Day '67 Set for June 3

A full schedule, including reunion activities, Alumni College, and the annual alumni banquet is being planned for Saturday, June 3, 1967.

Alumni of all five-year anniversary classes since 1917 will want to begin making plans now to return to campus for the special events involving their classes:

1922
1927
1932
1937
1942
1947
1952
1957
1962

Alumni from all classes are warmly invited to attend the annual alumni banquet. From the good attendance last year, a capacity crowd is expected this year.

Alumni Day, a Goshen College tradition, opens Commencement weekend. Traditional activities for the rest of the weekend are the combined choirs' program Sunday afternoon, baccalaureate Sunday evening, and commencement Monday morning.

For All You Love, Make a Will

Goshen College is co-operating in the church-wide 1966-67 wills emphasis year. Such an emphasis has great significance for each adult in the College's constituency for at least three reasons.

1. The property each person possesses, real or personal, represents the work of a lifetime. Certainly he will want to exercise due diligence in determining how it shall be used in the event of his death. This can be done only through a will or legal instrument.

2. Those who have minor children are responsible to see that they are properly cared for materially and directed socially and spiritually in the event that both parents are taken in death at or near the same time. A will is the only legal means of appointing guardians and trustees for them. In the absence of a will, the probate court will do it, perhaps basing its decisions on criteria much different from the parents'.

3. Many persons have exercised careful Christian stewardship of possessions during life and will want to use the same good stewardship in disposing of their estates. Certainly a minimum of a tithe should go to the church and the institutions in which they have the most interest. In some cases they will wish to establish an endowment to assure annual income equal to their annual gifts. For example, a person with modest means who has been giving Goshen College $100 a year may want to arrange for a bequest of $2500 as endowment, which will assure $100 income a year permanently. If he has been blessed with more ample means, he may wish to provide a permanent salary for a teacher (perhaps a Bible professor, or any other). This can be done with a bequest to endowment of $250,000. Still larger bequests can provide entire buildings that can be used to prepare Christian leaders for years to come.

The investment returns on endowment funds, added to the gifts of the Mennonite Church, alumni, parents, friends, foundations, and corporations, and tuition and fees make up the income of Goshen College.

Prudent business management stretches this income far enough to cover the operating costs of the College. But all this income is not sufficient to provide for the required advancement and growth of the College.

Presently enrolling 1100, Goshen College expects to serve more than 1400 students by 1972. Growth calls for more residence halls, greater income to pay faculty, and funds to provide more scholarships for worthy students.

Even more important than the expansion program is Goshen's pledge to provide education that maintains a proper balance between academic excellence, spiritual growth and understanding, social development, and physical well-being.

Your bequest to Goshen College will help to assure that the College can continue its heritage of preparing leaders for the church and for society — a heritage that is well documented by Goshen's more than 11,000 alumni who are ministers, teachers, businessmen, doctors, and nurses, and persons in many other equally important occupations and professions.

The making of a will is an individual matter for each person. Likewise, the love shown in the will is love on a personal basis, with no one or any group interfering in any way.

For all you love, make a will. And let God's will be seen in yours.

Mail Mess Affects Newsletter

Recent national publicity has centered on the huge pile-ups of undelivered mail in strategic distribution centers of the United States.

But from reports received in the Alumni Office, there is reason to believe that mail has also stacked up in the post offices of small cities and towns as well.

These alumni have every right to expect the Goshen College Bulletin and Alumni Newsletter to be delivered promptly. Announcements of regional club meetings, Homecoming, commencement weekend and Alumni Day, and board of directors meetings appear in these publications. These announcements serve little purpose if received after the event.

For these reasons the Alumni Office is reviewing whether it should continue to use second and third class mail as much as in the past.

One of the reasons for continuing to use second class mail for the Newsletter is the advantage of low cost. For example, the postage bill for this issue of the Newsletter, eight pages long, and mailed to more than 11,000 alumni at 9,972 addresses, will be about $32. If it would be sent first class, it would cost about $1000.

Similarly, low cost is the reason for continuing to use third class for large mailings which are not regular throughout the year like the Newsletter. The mailing in late November which included the folder, "An Invitation to Opportunity in 1967," cost $99.59. If this would have been sent first class, the cost would have been almost $400.

It is clear, though, that announcements about regional club meetings, board of directors meetings, and other events in which time is of major importance, must be mailed first class, if alumni are to receive information about the event in plenty of time to do their part. Presently there is no indication that first class mail is being held up in any section of the nation to the same extent as second and third class mail.

Faith, Reason, and GC

Just as a person is neither exclusively good nor exclusively bad, neither is he exclusively a person of reason nor of faith. The degree to which they are integrated varies with each person. However, despite any attempt of denial, both are factors of influence in our lives. And successful integration of both are important for mental health and maturity.

One of the opportunities before a church-related college is to cultivate maturity and mental health in its students. The cultural process used to promote this development must ever be subject to review and study and open to change, when necessary.

Alumni can quite innocently confuse a change in cultural process to mean a change in purpose. A process not completely understood is apt to be judged improperly, especially if it is compared to a process in which alumni were personally involved. Confusion by such comparison can easily lead to strain in relations between alumni and their alma mater.

A part of communicating to alumni is directed toward avoiding possible confusion and strain. It is clear that the responsibility in this area lies not only with the college but also with alumni. Alumni should try to understand their college and its current cultural process in the present-day perspective. If Goshen College is to be understood in this perspective, the process dare not be confused as a part of the purpose.

For example, the 1914 Model T Ford, a product of an effective process in its time, successfully fulfilled its purpose. It provided good transportation in its era.

The 1967 LTD Ford, a product of a much different process, admittedly, also successfully serves its purpose. It provides good transportation today.

The Model T is not degraded by its successors. The LTD, however, is the better because a Model T preceded it and also because the process of production underwent change. In fact, would the LTD serve any purpose if it had to be produced by the Model T process?

Alumni must take the time and put forth the effort to keep up to date on Goshen College. They must keep abreast of purpose, process, and product. They must put them into proper perspective in light of the current setting. Altogether they may just indicate that Goshen College is on target.

It is true that seldom do two persons act the same. But a conscious effort by alumni to understand Goshen College could mean nearly identical action in regard to their college as similar as is possible for persons who are neither exclusively good nor exclusively bad but for whom both faith and reason are vital and relevant.

ANNOUNCEMENT
The 1967 Alumni Annual Fund

1. What is the goal?

The goal has been set at $133,000. Actually it is two goals in one: (1) $100,000 for gifts for the 1967 Alumni Annual Fund, and (2) a proportionate share of a three-year goal, 1967-69, of $100,000 for endowment, or $33,000. It has been said, "A college without endowment is like a home without income."

2. For what will the gifts be used?

The gifts will be for unrestricted use by the College, unless otherwise designated for a specific purpose.

3. What does "unrestricted use" mean?

In past years alumni gifts went toward a specific project. For example, last year the funds were divided between books for the new library and for enlarging the student center — including the snack shop, bookstore, and post office, completed early last fall.

In contrast to this are the College's requirements for "unrestricted funds" — for paying salaries, buying pencils, paper, and instructional supplies, paying the heat, water, electric, and phone bills, paying for plant maintenance, shoveling the snow, mowing the lawns, making repairs, and a host of other items.

4. What is so important about "unrestricted funds?"

The everyday, routine bread-and-butter bills of the College must be met before any money can be used for campus improvement, development, and expansion. These "unrestricted funds" are at the very heart of the daily operations of the institution. Only after the operating budget is balanced can the needs of the ongoing capital program be met.

5. I thought the goal included designated funds as well.

It does. Alumni who prefer to designate their gifts for a project are welcome to do so. In many cases these projects are part of the operating budget of the school.

For example, when an alumnus designates his gift to the natural science division, the way becomes open for an undesignated gift from another alumnus to be allocated to some other part of the school's operations.

The advantage is that the operating budget is so broad that each giver can find something in it to designate his gift for, if he wishes.

6. What is the specific operating budget for 1966-67?

|---|---|
| Instruction | $ 860,000 |
| Faculty salaries, operation of offices related to instruction, instructional materials and equipment, retirement and hospitalization plans | |
| General Administration | 73,000 |
| Board of Education, Board of Overseers, President's office, business office | |
| General Institutional and Public Services | 143,000 |
| Catalogs, general services, insurance, travel, legal fees, public relations, commencement | |
| Libraries | 87,000 |
| General and seminary libraries, books, periodicals, supplies, and salaries | |
| Organized Research | 33,000 |
| Sponsored and independent faculty research | |
| Operation and Maintenance of Physical Plant | 132,000 |
| Janitors, building and equipment maintenance and repair, building insurance, utilities | |
| Student Aid and Scholarships | 87,000 |
| This amount must be substantially increased in the next few years | |
| Student Services | 137,000 |
| Personnel, Registrar's, and Admissions offices, health center, and student activities | |
| Partially Self-supporting Programs | 25,000 |
| Choirs, laboratory kindergarten, Lecture-Music Series | |
| Government Student Aid | 77,000 |
| The college must furnish one dollar for every nine supplied by the government | |
| Total | $1,654,000 |

7. Why did you add a three-year goal to the 1967 Alumni Annual Fund?

The combination of goals provides an adequate measure of flexibility for alumni to make sizable gifts toward endowment or for some other project. It is clear, however, that the $100,000 goal for 1967 must be met first.

8. Who decided on the goal and the project?

The executive committee of the Alumni Association made the decisions. Its members are Frank Ulrich, Larry Beachy, John H. Liechty, Anne K. Hershberger, and Ronald B. Schertz. Larry Yoder, national fund chairman, was also present.

9. Is the goal and project part of Goshen College's 75th Anniversary Development Program?

Yes. A total of $1,125,000 of the $3,500,000 goal of the 75th Anniversary Development Program goes toward strengthening teaching and research, books, research, financial aid to students, and for keeping the budget in balance while meeting existing commitments and initiating new educational programs. A total of $300,000 goes toward endowment, income that has the advantage of perpetuity.

10. How is the 1967 Alumni Annual Fund organized?

Under the direction of National Chairman Larry Yoder are 15 state area chairmen. Reporting to these area chairmen are a corps of chairmen for districts and their workers, who in turn will call personally on alumni. In some areas, where alumni are densely concentrated, there are two or three intermediate levels between the state chairman and the worker.

11. Who are the state area chairmen?

Allen Graber '64, Co-state Chairman for Indiana
  Excluding Elkhart County
Harold E. Hartzler '56, Co-state Chairman for Elkhart County
Robert Gotwals '51, Co-state Chairman for Eastern Pennsylvania
Vernon H. Schmidt '39, Co-state Chairman for Western Pennsylvania
Perry Beachy '53, California
Merritt Birky '58, Greater Washington, D.C.
Mrs. J. Lawrence Burkholder '37, Massachusetts
Dr. Clayton Diener '50, Kansas
Thomas Diener '55, New York
Dr. Orie J. Gingerich '48, Iowa
Dr. John M. Grasse '48, Arkansas and Missouri
Gene Kanagy '53, Oregon
Robert Lerch '56, Ohio
Don Snapp '51, Colorado
Maurice J. Yordy '52, Illinois

12. Will all alumni receive personal visits?

National Chairman Larry Yoder desires that every alumnus be visited personally. This may not be practical in certain areas, however, owing to transportation difficulties and/or isolation of alumni from the main centers of alumni concentration.

13. When will be the 1967 Alumni Annual kick-off?

The kick-off is set for Wednesday, March 1. The fund will be conducted intensively during that month.

14. How will reporting of gifts be done?

Gifts will be reported in two ways: (1) by state in which the alumnus presently lives, and (2) by class. In case of married alumni, gifts will be divided equally between their classes unless otherwise designated.

15. What is the purpose in giving annually to Goshen College?

Alumni give immediate concrete evidence of their interest for Goshen College when they send a gift each year to strengthen the College's program. They do this for several reasons:

1. Goshen College has been beneficial in the lives of its alumni, who have been the recipients of Goshen's fine resources.
2. Goshen College is a top-rated fully-accredited school.
3. Goshen College is destined for an even more significant role in providing higher education for evangelical Christians.

It is at once clear that Goshen College is worthy of alumni support. And alumni support and annual giving make it possible to pass on to young persons of today and tomorrow the benefits of the Goshen College heritage.

LINES FROM LIECHTY

Dear Alumnus:

Every office in the nation looks forward eagerly to the morning mail, and the Alumni Office at Goshen College is no exception. Here are excerpts from my morning mail of December 12, 1966.

The first letter comes from a mother of a student and in it is a very fine gift.

> When our son was beginning to think of making a choice of a college, my husband suggested Goshen as a possibility. We were able to make a trip there during the summer preceding our son's senior year of high school. All of us liked the college very much and our son decided that he would like to go there. He applied to no other college and fortunately Goshen accepted him. When we took him to the campus in September, we were further impressed by the quality of the leadership and the dedication of those who were associated with the college in various ways. We were glad to be able to leave him in a school which is so much concerned with the individual student. As he continues to mature and learns to be more and more independent, as he questions and re-evaluates the standards by which he has lived, and as he goes deeper into many fields of knowledge, we are happy to know that competent and understanding professors and counselors are closely associated with him.

The next letter is just a short note:

> Your program of "Christian higher education" has me confused. Save postage and remove us from your mailing list.

The next item of mail is a business reply envelope. Nothing is included—no name nor note—just seven cents postage due marked on the outside; otherwise it looks just like it did when mailed to you. Oh yes, the postmark—that's a clue.

The fourth states:

> Since I am not an alumnus of Goshen College, will you please remove my name from the list?

And then this letter (oh yes, this one includes a check):

> I am now semi-retired after working at - - - - for 43 years. I still work two days a week and during vacations. I am enjoying my retirement and keep busy with bookkeeping work and also as treasurer of - - - - congregation.

And so on through the mail.

Letters Fall into Patterns

After two years of reading your letters, patterns of response begin to emerge. Letters like those above are not unusual.

Let's begin with the first letter above. How do you reply when parents express confidence in the faculty and appreciation for the program of Goshen College? Maybe a reply isn't necessary. Or maybe the thing to do is to resolve quietly to do everything one can so their dreams and hopes will become a reality. I feel this family is qualified to make a value judgment about Goshen College because they are very familiar with a number of college and university programs.

Confusion?

There are many heartaches caused by misunderstandings and confusion between persons. This happens between alumni and their college, and so the second letter demands a response.

But how can we help if we remove them from our mailing list and have no further communication? Is it wise to answer their letter or will it only widen the breach and add to the confusion? Will persons with their attitude be willing to visit the campus, see for themselves, and have eyeball to eyeball talks about the areas of confusion? Or does one just ignore the writers?

Without any idea of the cause of confusion it seems unwise to ignore them; yet there is little value in a lengthy letter since the area of confusion is not shared. I'll try a warm invitation to them to visit the campus and to discuss their concerns with persons of responsibility.

I might add a note to tell them of my plans to visit their community and my willingness to stop by their house. If there is no reply or visit to the campus, then at least the door is open for one last try.

The Empty Envelope

Now let's think about the person who sent in the empty business reply envelope. Undoubtedly he is trying to say something. But what? Is it "Save your energy and effort, I won't respond"? If this is the message, how can we stop our mailings if we don't know who he is?

Or is his message "I'll show you—if you send me a return envelope postage paid you must want me to use it, so I'll make you pay for it"?

Shall I ignore it? That's all I can do. But in doing so I know fully well that this person doesn't wish to be ignored. This alumnus is playing a guessing game, but he will have to play solitaire for the present.

The next letter says:

> I am not an alumnus.

This note sends me to the permanent record file to check. Sure enough, there is his name on the registrar's file. He was a student at GC for two summers and three semesters before transferring to - - - - University.

Now to the constitution of the Alumni Association, Article II, Membership, Sections 1 and 2:

> "All former students and graduates of Elkhart Institute, the Goshen College Academy, the Winter Bible School, Goshen College, and the Goshen College Biblical Seminary shall be considered as members of this Association. All students who successfully complete one semester of college credit (13 hours or more; credit may be earned as part-time students) shall upon graduation of their class become members of the Association."

Would you write to the person who says he is not an alumnus and tell him he is wrong? Or is it better to send a copy of the constitution and include a letter stating that if he insists his name can be removed from the mailing list?

But his name cannot be removed from GC's permanent records. He will be forever in the files of the registrar's office, in the memory files of professors, classmates, and hometown persons who remember when he was at Goshen. Really, now, does any former student want the College to refuse recognition of his work here?

The last letter is like a breath of April air after the smog of winter is washed away. An alumnus who has filled his life with useful work, helped in the institutions of society around him, and still is able and wants to support his college and Christian higher education brings joy to my heart and renews my confidence in mankind.

While you are reading my morning mail, let me share with you some of the popular reasons alumni give for not contributing to the Alumni Annual Fund.

> 1. I support the College through the church (or, I support the College through the church budget).

These rate first in preference among non-contributors.

Alumnus, whoever you are, have you ever checked to see if your church really does support Goshen College? The excuse above sometimes is given by alumni whose churches are not supporting the College, either through the budget or otherwise. If you are not sure about your congregation, ask and find out.

GC's constituency area includes the Illinois, Indiana-Michigan, Ohio and Eastern, Allegheny, Franconia, and Ontario Mennonite district conferences. We expect congregations in these districts to support the church's program of Christian higher education in the amount suggested by the General Conference for Goshen College. And a few congregations have reached this level of support ($10 a member a year). Your participation in this is the same as for non-

Testimony Given

Mrs. Lawrence S. (Grace Wilson) Slabaugh, of Goshen, Ind., has taught elementary special education in Goshen since '57; received master's in that field in '62 at Indiana State U. Active on board of Christian education, junior department, Friendways Club, all of the Church of God, and in Campfire Girls. She writes, "My husband is a wonderful Christian man . . . and we enjoyed a 25th wedding anniversary last year. Many soul-satisfying experiences have been mine. Other than being increasingly aware of the love of God and my family the love of little children I consider one of my greatest treasures. I'm even an "adopted" grandmother. . . . I'm rich in the treasures of the heart." One son, a high school senior. . . . Kathryn Slabaugh, of Calico Rock, Ark., teaches Grade 6 in the public school and is treasurer of the Ozark Mennonite Camping Assn. Sunday-school teacher.

A son, Peter Elliott, was born to Stanley J. '57 and Marlene (Rufenacht) '59 Smucker last April 5. . . . Howard B. Snider was graduated from Western Michigan U. last April with the M.A. in teaching of social science.

Book Purchaser

Married to Marietta Janet Egli; five children. . . . Mrs. R. Edwin (Shirley Amstutz) Toole, of Bellwood, Ill., taught in Cleveland Heights two years and in Chicago three years. Now homemaker and mother of two sons (ages 3 and 1). Active at Lombard Mennonite Church.

Mrs. Elmer (Winifred Mumaw) Wall, of Sioux Falls, S. Dak., is minister's wife, homemaker, mother of two sons (ages 4 and 2). Husband '56 is pastor of Good Shepherd Mennonite Church. Winifred directs the choir, director of the Mothers' Club, and secretary of the city's ministers' wives' fellowship. . . . Mrs. Herman (Grace Mininger) Weaver, of Reedley, Calif., is nursing full-time for a surgeon, homemaker, and mother of two. Teaches college-age Sunday-school class, member of Community Concert board. Husband '53.

Guidance Counselor

Leland K. Weldy, of South Bend, Ind., formerly of GC's admissions office, joined the faculty of the new Jackson High School last fall (1200 students) as guidance counselor. Received M.S. in guidance and counseling from Indiana U.

alumni, isn't it? Your contribution through church giving is as a member of the owner-operator organization of the College.

But even if your congregation is supporting the College, have you ever thought carefully about your position as an alumnus?

So the question still remains — what are you doing as an alumnus? Your fellow church members know you are an alumnus and undoubtedly expect you to do more for your college than they themselves do. And there is no reason for you to be timid.

Alumni of Goshen College have received greater benefits than non-alumni, and this reason justifies your devoting greater effort to the support of Goshen College. The College identifies with you; do you identify with the College?

2. I give priority to local needs.

Fine. You should give priority to local needs, but isn't there a little left to give to your Alma Mater? Our suggestion for giving to Christian higher education is 10 per cent of your tithe or 1 per cent of your income. Is that unreasonable or out of your reach?

Last year Goshen received gifts ranging from one dollar to one million dollars. Most everyone can find a suitable level for himself in that range. Or if you like, you may extend the range at either end.

3. I do not presently belong to the Mennonite Church, and I feel my support must go to my church institutions.

Your degree or transcript is just as valid as it was when you left the campus of GC. Your record as a student stands regardless of your past or present church affiliation.

4. I have "outgrown" Goshen; it's too small, too large, too unsophisticated, too provincial, too . . ., too . . ., too . . . .

Friend, you have gone too far astray. When have you last visited the campus? Do you know the present faculty members? Why not pay a visit to the campus and see for yourself the progress and program of the middle '60's? Some who have returned to the campus leave a bit humble; they are sorry they didn't see for themselves a long time ago.

5. I'm angry with the College because I was treated rudely, or, I was punished for something I didn't do, or, The Business Office keeps billing me for payments of my college debt, or, My son (or daughter) was not admitted, or, Chapel isn't like it used to be, or, The College hasn't recognized my achievements, or, The girls wear slacks on campus, etcetera, etcetera, etcetera . . . (You name it; we've heard it. — Ed.)

My friends, these are all pretty good reasons, and I'm sure you are sincere. But wouldn't it be of help to sit down and talk about it with persons on the College staff? It's amazing what can be done with a little friendly conversation. Why don't you visit the campus soon — or at least invite a member of our staff to visit you on his next trip to your area? Let's talk it over; don't carry your wounds to the grave with you.

6. I hear some of the professors are teaching things that are against my idea of what should be taught in a Christian college.

Hearsay is dangerous. It just may not be correct. Better check it out for yourself. Write for an appointment to discuss the areas in question with either faculty members or the dean of the College. They will be happy to accommodate you and maybe all of us can benefit through the exchange.

7. I give to my graduate school and that's all I can handle.

But where did you get your undergraduate education? Is undergraduate education less important in the field of higher education today than it was when you were a student? Chances are you had a more intimate education at upperclass levels at Goshen than at any other place. Isn't this worth preserving for young persons of today and tomorrow?

8. My husband went to - - - - University and we give to his Alma Mater.

You have a husband to be admired by all as a fine example for alumni. But is he being fair if he excludes your college? Try by asking him to consider GC at least in alternate years.

9. I have never given to Goshen College — that's all.

Now's the time to break an old habit and try something new. Become a donor to your Alma Mater. Read the Alumni Newsletter and find reasons for giving. The motivation is hidden somewhere. Alumni in increasing numbers are finding both the reason and the means for giving to the Alumni Annual Fund.

10. ? . . . ? . . . ? . . . ? . . .

My friends, the greatest puzzle of them all, however, is the more than 60 per cent of you who neither make an excuse nor give to the Alumni Annual Fund. I can only wonder . . . .

My Reasons

Do you want to know the reasons for this extended "Lines from Liechty"?

First and above all is my firm belief that Goshen College as a Christian institution has a definite role in the field of higher education.

Pressures today are pushing responsibility for higher education almost solely into the area of public service. It is not my purpose here to discuss extensively the advantages of a dual system for providing higher education. Let me say, though, that the private college is the only truly academic community, since it is free to look at the Christian virtues as well as the natural virtues. I believe young persons, as they pursue their education, should have live options to choose from. And it remains the privilege of the private college to provide one of the most important options.

Second, I believe Goshen College is a Christian liberal arts college of excellent quality.

The faculty at Goshen compares very favorably with the faculties of many colleges and universities. Professors are recognized authorities in their disciplines and respected for their ability in the teaching profession. Faculty persons with the highest qualifications teach not only upperclassmen but underclassmen as well, including freshmen.

Third, it is clear to me that you, along with all alumni, have both the capacity and the power to make a difference in the quality of higher education.

Persons who have pursued their education beyond high school are above average in income in almost direct proportion to the extent of their higher education. This capacity is present in alumni, regardless of their Alma Mater, and Goshen College alumni are not different in this respect.

Having capacity and power to make a difference in higher education is by no means limited to financial resources. Kind thoughts, expressions of appreciation, votes of confidence, requests for leadership in social and cultural review and change, and other similar courtesies are useful for the encouragement they provide.

However, it requires money to provide student aid, raise faculty salaries, replace old books and add new books to the library, light the campus after dark, provide parking lots for students' cars, buy new laboratory equipment, and on and on and on and on.

There simply is no other way to maintain or raise the quality of private higher education without money — your money, my money, money from fellow alumni, parents, friends, the church, business and industry, and foundations.

Therein lies both the capacity and power to make a difference in higher education at Goshen College. You, my friend, have both that capacity and power to make the difference.

GOSHEN COLLEGE BULLETIN FEBRUARY 1967

Spending Money for the Benefit of the Students

"A good college has so many good ideas that there will never be enough money to satisfy all its legitimate requirements," according to Ralph J. Gunden, business manager at Goshen College.

"At Goshen we have a limited amount of funds, so we allocate them according to the most important ideas on campus, and spend minimum amounts on those that are on the periphery."

Unlike a business operated for profit, the business of the college is not to make money, but to spend it wisely. The goal, therefore, is to spend money in the best way possible to achieve the educational objectives of the school. To reach this goal, the college business manager and his staff try to use the best business procedures available.

For example, a college doesn't achieve educational greatness because of the high quality of its janitorial service. Nevertheless, no matter how good the professors are, if the students have to sit in rooms with 40° temperature, nothing important in the learning process is going to happen.

The business manager and his staff are vital members on the educators' team. They understand the learning process so that the management functions which each performs will contribute to the overall learning that is to be done.

Benefits for the Students

The purpose of business management at GC is to pass on as many educational benefits as possible to the students. For example, the residence halls, dining room, bookstore, snack shop, post office, and other auxiliary enterprises are budgeted to break even as a group with only a slight cushion for contingencies.

GC's budgeting system is designed not to get costs accurate to the last cent, but to produce, within reasonable limits, estimates required to make decisions about the future.

For example, when Mr. Gunden works on the budgets, he is estimating costs for a period that will not end until some 18 months later. The budgets he worked on early this winter will affect students July, 1967, through June, 1968. It is a formidable task to predict prices and estimate income that far in the future.

Learning vs. Non-learning Costs

One of the important decision areas is educational vs. non-educational costs. That is, it is not of great consequence if for good reasons it costs a bit more to operate one residence hall than another.

It is of significance if some of the tuition students pay is allocated for subsidizing some non-educational program, for example, the debt costs on Kratz Hall.

Mr. Gunden says, "Living costs for a student go on whether he is at Goshen College, living at home, or supporting himself near a job. Therefore, subsidies are reserved for expenses for learning purposes, not for students' living costs."

The Most for the Least

"But it is our business," Mr. Gunden says, "to provide the most services and the most education for the least amount. For example, we provide housing, meals, and recreational activities at the lowest possible cost that we can. These are services which students must obtain either from us or else off campus. There are distinct values to the student living on campus and becoming a vital part of the college community."

In the end, the students are the customers. The dollar can be stretched only so far, and students are ready to give counsel on how the dollar should be stretched. Their opinions and suggestions for food service in the dining room have led to the formation of a committee to speak to that area.

Because of its success, as a channel for constructive conversation, a similar committee is being formed presently to offer suggestions on snack shop service. Don McCammon, manager of the bookstore, snack shop, and post office, says he will welcome this type of exchange to be sure that the service is what it should be.

Ultimately, however, the College cannot always please everybody. After the facts, statements, opinions, and suggestions have been offered, the decision is still left for the business manager and his staff to make.

One-Third Receive Financial Aid

Another aspect of business management at GC centers in the student with financial need. Walter Schmucker, director of student financial aid, reports that slightly more than one-third of GC's full-time students received financial aid this year. The total figure of well over one-third of a million dollars did not include the amounts of state loans or loans from similar off-campus sources received by students and which did not involve allocation by the College.

Loren Stauffer, as director of staff personnel, helps needy students earn from $200 to $400 a year. This year he hired 78 students, among them janitors, carpenters, bookstore cashiers, snack shop and post office clerks, dining room helpers, and secretaries, all on a part-time basis and all in the College's work-study program. Each can perform his job within his class schedule.

RALPH J. GUNDEN, business manager, has been at Goshen College since 1949. He is directly responsible to the President of the College and a member of the Administrative Council; he works closely with the budget and finance committee of the Board of Overseers. By virtue of his office, Mr. Gunden is executive secretary of every building committee. He also plays a vital role on three other important committees: plans and projects, student aid, and the committee on the future of the college. He has delegated to his staff members the day-to-day management of their own areas of responsibility; he, in turn, devotes himself to long-range financial planning, building the annual budget, and responding appropriately to requests for resources from all parts of the College. By the nature of his work, he is deeply involved in the community and has frequent contacts with planning and zoning groups, and with business and civic leaders.

Dining Room vs. Restaurant

Miss Phyllis Roose, director of food service, has compared recently the proportion of her budget spent for food with the budget of a restaurant operated for profit.

The figure of 25 to 40 per cent for food cost would be ordinary in a restaurant or other food service operated for profit. But last year Miss Roose spent 58 per cent for food; the remaining 42 per cent went for labor, supplies and equipment, and other operating expenses.

Miss Roose has kept her budget balanced in spite of rising food prices. And by operating efficiently, she has been able to serve an increase in number of students without proportionately increasing the number of staff hours required for the job.

The lines are shorter, too. A double serving line, set up a year ago, has made possible much faster service to students whose number presently is about double that served when the dining room was built 15 years ago.

Maintaining the Campus

A small private college like Goshen does not have the resources of state treasuries as do public institutions or

KENNETH E. KING, director of physical plant, is responsible for all phases of the general maintenance and repair program. Thirty-two staff persons and 15 students assist him in preventative maintenance, housekeeping and custodial services, campus beautification, maintenance of the automobile fleet, and campus security. His budget this year is $182,000 for utilities, maintenance of buildings and grounds, and staff wages.

RONALD E. BRUNK, office manager, is the accountant and supervisor of central services, which includes telephone services, typing, printing and duplicating, mailing, bookkeeping, and the cashier's office. Mr. Brunk receives and disburses all institutional funds and is responsible for their internal audit. He is also the College's fiscal officer for all U.S. Government monies —grants for research and training, and a variety of loan programs.

MISS PHYLLIS ROOSE, director of food service, is responsible for menu planning, food purchasing, physical and sanitary maintenance of the kitchen and dining room, and a staff of 26 full-time persons and about 60 part-time student employees. Miss Roose and a food service advisory committee, made up of students, a few faculty members, and Mr. Gunden, discuss occasionally those things that mean so much to students at mealtime.

HAROLD BROOKS, superintendent of construction, is general contractor for the College. Presently he is working with nine subcontractors and six material suppliers for building the Harold and Wilma Good Library. His job is to visualize the dream of the architect and the desires of the library planning committee and then produce the building that is useful as well as pleasing in appearance.

WALTER SCHMUCKER, director of student finances, administers the financial aid program, which includes funds from the College, private agencies, and individuals in many communities, as well as agencies of federal affiliation. In working with each student and his financial need, he helps to determine the best mix of scholarships, grants, loans, and employment, and then he sees that the student gets the awards that he qualifies for.

of income from large endowment funds as do some other schools. Maintaining the campus and providing the behind-the-scenes services so necessary for the learning process is done with a smaller amount per student at Goshen than at most colleges and universities.

Kenneth E. King, director of physical plant, says, "Even though we don't have the money to maintain everything as nice as some schools can, we are getting more for our money than they are. The credit for this goes to our workers."

Mr. King's statement is amplified by the attitudes many staff persons display in the daily 8 to 5 routine. A transcription typist in the Central Services office, which includes accounting, typing, printing, mailing, and the services of a cashier, says, "I feel it is important to the faculty that their regular correspondence be done well and on time." A person in the cashier and bookkeeping office says, "It is important to let the students know that their accounts are accurate and up to date."

Ronald E. Brunk, office manager, reflects the same desire that satisfactory and efficient service be given to the faculty so that each of them can do his teaching job well.

DON McCAMMON is manager of the bookstore, snack shop, and post office. Last year the bookstore had a gross income of over $128,000; the snack shop, over $26,900. On his staff are seven full-time persons and 21 part-time student employees.

In most cases the items of cost do not include non-academic expenses such as laundry, books, student club fees, and other personal expenditures. The fees above normally include tuition, medical services, student activities, etc., as well as average costs of room and board. An out-of-state resident attending a state school usually pays higher charges. (There is only one private school in the above list with a lower total cost than GC.—Ed.)

Contractor vs. Superintendent

Instead of hiring a general contracting firm for its buildings, GC hires Mr. Brooks. His services have resulted in substantial savings. For example, one contractor's estimate on Miller Hall was $495,000. With Mr. Brooks on the job and with the co-operation of local subcontractors, it was built and furnished for $395,000, exactly $100,000 less.

Mr. Brooks' knowledge includes many details and requirements of the campus that range from underground soil conditions to the intricacies of the school's own utility system. Further, his supervision makes it possible for the College to use donated materials (insulation from Dow Chemical Co., for example), donated labor, and student labor to good advantage. These have resulted in considerable savings in the nine projects he has managed for GC.

Not Enough to Go Around

Even with the many money-saving techniques that have been put into practice, there still is not enough money to go around. Last fall, for example, two projects of about equal priority, each with the same price, faced Mr. Gunden.

New risers were needed for use by the three choirs, music and speech departments, the Lecture-Music series, and for some general purposes, like outdoor convocations. At the same time some rooms needed redecorating.

The money can be spent only once. Here the money was allocated for the purpose which would affect the most persons and which would be most closely related to the learning process. The risers were purchased.

It all boils down to this: Goshen College wants the most educational value for its money—the money students pay for tuition, as well as the gifts from the church, alumni, business and industry, foundations, and friends of the College.

But business management at GC is not an end in itself. Rather it is a means to achieve for each student the services—teaching, counseling, recreation, spiritual, residence hall and dining facilities, and a host of others —he requires for his Christian higher education.

LOREN STAUFFER is director of staff personnel. In addition to utilizing efficiently 78 students who are working part-time in the work-study program, he works with 100 persons who are on the staff in the many departments of the College. His responsibility for an effective employee program includes the screening of job applicants, and once they are employed, for utilizing each person's full capabilities.

Christians the Conscience of Society

By Guy F. Hershberger, Professor Emeritus of History

Convocation Address to Students and Faculty, Goshen College, December 14, 1966

One day about 1900 years ago a young man rather recently out of college (and the victim of an unusual kind of sunstroke which left him prone to trouble making) with one or two fellow trouble makers came to a Greek town today called Saloniki. Here these pestiferous fellows argued daily with religious leaders until they were put in jail because they were turning the world upside down. The truth is, of course, they were really turning the world right side up.

Many times since that day the world has, again and again, been in need of down-side-up treatment, and occasionally it has happened. In 1966 we find ourselves in exactly such a time, confusion on every hand which seems to be asking for some kind of therapy enabling us really to speak of this as the Year of our Lord 1966—or 1967 if we need one more Advent season to get us going. And the question I am posing is: Who is going to do this right-side-up job, and how is it going to be done?

I shall make bold to say that in the course of these 1900 years the only real turners of things right side up have been Paul and those who have followed in his train.

When Peter and John got fired up with their preaching, hostile Jews and Samaritans were brought together (see Acts 8:25) until there was some genuine racial reconciliation, even integration, I suspect — something incidentally which needs to be done all over again as between Israeli and Jordani today.

Then later when Peter connected up with a man named Cornelius two things were set straight: (1) Peter discovered that Gentiles were as good as Jews; and (2) of all things, an army captain was persuaded to follow in the steps of Christ. Then later Paul helped to run two iniquitous enterprises out of business—a slave labor enterprise in Philippi, and an image manufacturing business associated with the worship of a pagan deity in Ephesus. Later while in house arrest in Rome he inoculated the imperial household itself with the new faith and began the infiltration of Roman society as a whole, and the eventual disintegration of the pagan Roman empire to make way for the onward march of Western Christendom.

A Subversive Religion

Christianity, you see, is a subversive religion, producing social fruits, turning the world upside down. This is precisely what Mary's Magnificat (see Luke 1:51-53) said it would be: Putting the arrogant to rout; tearing imperial powers from their thrones; lifting high the humble; filling the hungry with good things; and sending the rich empty away.

The sixteenth century was another time in history when the world was in need of being turned right side up. And very significantly for modern Mennonites it was their own Anabaptist fathers who were used in a remarkable manner for the achievement of the social revolution proclaimed in the Song of Mary.

As Rauschenbusch says, "Their communities were prophetic. They have been the forerunners of the modern world. They stood against war, against capital punishment, against slavery, and against coercion in matters of religion before others thought of it. It was largely due to their influence that the Puritan Revolution had its prophetic elements of leadership. The Free Churches throughout the world, consciously or unconsciously, clearly or dimly, have passed beyond the official types of orthodox Protestantism, and have taken on some of the characteristics of the early radicals. Great church bodies now stand as a matter of course on those principles of freedom and toleration which only the boldest once dared assert."[1]

The Elijahs and the Isaiahs

These Anabaptists were the Elijahs, the Isaiahs, the Micahs and the Jeremiahs of their time, proclaiming the truth in flesh and in word to the Ahabs and the Jezebels of the sixteenth century. And it is these prophetic witnesses in whose tradition we stand.

It often is difficult, however, for later generations to enter into their own heritage, sometimes simply because they don't know what it is. How well I remember the collective wisdom of my own generation not long out of high school back in the days before 1920, with its disparaging remarks about the backwardness of the elders. And it was not until I learned something of what happened back there in the sixteenth century and what had been done under the leadership of such giants as John S. Coffman and John F. Funk, just two generations ahead of me, that I got my sense of direction for the future.

Now and then I hear things, or read them, which make me wonder whether some of today's GC sophomores—and others—are not almost as wise as we were 50 years ago. You know who a sophomore is, don't you? (It comes from the Greek word sophos, meaning wise, and the word moros, meaning foolish). Therefore if I can say something to help the present generation of students to get their sense of direction that is what I should like to do.

Making the World Safe for Democracy

The time is limited, so let's begin with April, 1917, when the United States started out to make the world safe for democracy, and Woodrow Wilson sent greetings to hundreds of thousands of men instructing them to report for training in one of the 32 military cantonments which had mushroomed all over the country. Among these recipients of greetings were a few thousand conscientious objectors, including Mennonites.

This was a new experience both for the objectors and the army officers who tried to make soldiers of men who wouldn't soldier. Neither the young Mennonite recruits nor their church had any experience with this kind of thing nor had they given much thought as to how to act in the emergency. But they were sure of one thing—that He under whose Lordship they stood as soldiers of the cross had some other calling for them than training to kill Germans on the other side of the Atlantic.

And so—surrounded by whole divisions of hostile uniformed soldiers who called them slackers and yellow bellies, and under the command of officers determined to break their wills, these CO's took their stand for the way of the Suffering Servant, not in some congenial alternative service assignment with friendly associates and directors, but in the midst of the camp of the enemy itself, so to speak.

If there were time I could tell you not only of taunts and jeers, but of physical tortures and courts-martial, of prison sentences ranging from five years to life, of the burning of churches or painting them yellow in the home community, and of Mennonite ministers dragged out of their homes and treated with coats of tar and feathers in the middle of the night.

A term in jail is often a good thing, if it is for the right reason. That is where much of the New Testament was written. One hundred thirty-eight Mennonites from the army camps received prison sentences by court-martial. And as soon as they got out many of them went off to France for a period of VS in the war torn section of Verdun, and in Turkey and Russia.

A New Day in the Church's History

These men, the grandfathers of some in this audience this morning—and some were GC students—were the advance guard for the ushering in of a new day in the history and work of the Mennonite Church. These men, and women who joined in with them, have given leadership on the mission field, in the educational work of the church, in the organization of the Mennonite Central Committee and its multi-related relief and service agencies. They initiated, even while on the field, a "young people's movement," anticipating, consciously or unconsciously, the far-flung youth work of 1966 as represented by the MYF, VS, Pax and all the rest.

The Peace Committee of the Mennonite Church, conceived and born in this situation, has for more than 40 years carried on a three-fold program of peace education within the church, a witness to other Christians, and to government, a remarkable story of the church in mission as the conscience of society. There was the petition prepared by the committee and signed by 20,000 men and women throughout the Mennonite brotherhood witnessing against a proposed Universal Military Training Bill in 1919 and presented to the President, and to congressmen and senators in Washington. There were the letters to Congress asking for the easing of international tension to which the United States was a contributory in the late 1920's in Nicaragua, in Mexico, and in China.

There have been the appearances of Mennonite spokesmen together with other peace leaders before official conferences of Methodists, Presbyterians, and others with a witness to their peace convictions. There were cablegrams to the Geneva disarmament conference in 1933 in the name of 50,000 Mennonites praying that the conference accomplish definite progress toward peace. There was the communication from the MCC to the Oxford World Conference on Church, Community, and State in 1937, with its plea for world co-operation and fellowship of peace.

Peace Churches Confer in 1935

There was the historic conference of the peace churches at Newton, Kans., in 1935 which set in motion the organized work of these churches resulting eventually in the formation of the National Service Board for Religious Objectors and an entirely new alternative service program by World War II, because by now even the military had been convinced that CO's were a nuisance in the army and should be given something else to do.

Thus because your grandfathers performed the remarkable work which they did in World War I, your fathers in World War II were able to do even greater works than these: (1) in CPS; (2) as workers in mental hospitals opening up an entire new field of social service, and through its impact on the conscience of society bringing about at least a mild revolution in mental hospital work and service; (3) in the inauguration of a VS program which has grown until at this very moment Mennonites have nearly 1000 men and women in this service, including the Pax service from which President Kennedy got his idea in part at least for the government Peace Corps.

When to these figures are added another 400 workers on the various

Christians (continued)

Mennonite overseas fields, it means that our churches have somewhere between 1300 and 1500 workers in these services, all of them making their contribution as the Christian conscience of society.

Influence Recognized Around The World

Go where you will in the world and this contribution, this influence is recognized. In Vietnam the Mennonites have about 40 workers (with our fellow student Dan Gerber a prisoner in service on the VC side), and the entire Protestant service in Vietnam under the administration of MCC.

The Mennonite position on capital punishment and on the race question is well known by the public. Agencies working for the abolition of the death penalty in both Ohio and Indiana are in communication with the Mennonite Church on this issue. In 1963 and 1964 on the race question every congressman and senator in Washington heard from the Mennonites personally about their concern for the completion of emancipation. Some of them heard it numerous times from numerous individuals, so that Congressman Brademas of the third Indiana district has said that he received more communications from Mennonites than from any other group on this question. And I have a letter from Strom Thurmond, the segregationist senator from South Carolina expressing his genuine disappointment with this attitude of the Mennonites of whom he had thought better things.

In January 1966 entire issues of both the Mennonite and the Gospel Herald were devoted to the Vietnam question, and the President and every congressman and senator received personal copies of these issues. There can be no doubt in Washington as to where the Mennonite Church stands on Vietnam. Neither is there any ignorance as to what the church is doing for the relief of suffering in that country.

Greater Faithfulness Required

Now, just a few weeks ago, an inter-Mennonite conference under MCC leadership in Minneapolis took a new look at the question and renewed its resolve to greater faithfulness in the discharge of this responsibility. Here are some things the conference said:

A. "The tragedy of human suffering in both North and South Vietnam should compel us to witness against the violence and injustices there. We express our profound sorrow and concern on behalf of our fellowmen there. To them, as people for whom Christ also died, we seek to offer spiritual and physical aid. Following the Biblical command to love and feed even our enemies, we must continue to pursue ways and means of ministering to the suffering people of all Vietnam."

B. "While remaining sensitive to the suffering of the peoples in North and South Vietnam it is imperative that we also seek to understand the underlying causes of tension in other parts of the world both within individual countries and between nation states. We seek through the guidance of the Holy Spirit to ascertain the will of God for us as we attempt to meet the problems thus created."

And so here the church envisions a program which can keep all of us busy for years to come.

One Challenge to GC Students

I am a faithful reader of the Campus Opinion Board and of the newspapers, and I also have some opinions now and then of what I read there. I saw one letter by a former visiting convocation speaker whom I didn't hear because I was out of town at the time he spoke. I don't know what I think about all the things he says in his letter, but I was struck by his challenge to GC students to raise $20,000 a year for the furtherance of Christ's mission throughout the world. And he says other schools our size are doing it.

I don't know how these students go about it, or how we would do it, but I heard recently that the registration of student automobiles on the campus is 352. Now if we could somehow manage to get along with only 332 of these buggies, everyone sharing in what it takes to do it, the surplus 20 could probably produce the $20,000, and incidentally relieve the parking problem by that much. How about it? The Goshen students who went to camp in 1918 to be court-martialed had no automobiles.

No, our grandfathers and our fathers didn't do everything that they might have done. And the Mennonite Church, along with all churches, has much more to do before it reaches the goal which the Lord of history has set before her.

The Words of the Master

But I keep hearing the words of the Master to the disciples, "Truly, truly, I say to you, he who believes in me will also do the works that I do; and greater works than these will he do, because I go to the Father."[2]

This is a terrific statement. And may I suggest that your grandfathers in army cantonments, in Leavenworth prison, and on the fields of service in Russia, France, and Turkey, and those on the mission fields in various lands beyond the sea were engaged in this greater work.

But the words of Jesus, if I understand them, mean that the work of each generation of disciples must be greater than that of the generation which preceded it. The work of your fathers in the 1940's and '50's was greater than that of your grandfathers in the 1910's and the '20's. And now we're approaching the 1970's when it is your turn to reach the next higher level of greater works.

The Challenge Before Us

My challenge is this: That we familiarize ourselves with what has gone before; that we respond to the call of Christian discipleship; that as laborers together with Christ we enter into the labors of our fathers and grandfathers and of those who preceded them, going forth to turn the world right side up.

By the time we are college seniors it is too late to lament the failures of the fathers and grandfathers — of which there were plenty as we all know. We can overlook the critiques of the sophomores — I was once a sophomore myself. But after sophomoring there are more important things to do.

Clayton Kratz was a senior, 21 or 22, and when men and women reach that age the responsibility is resting on themselves, not on their elders. The time now is here not to look back but forward.

The men in the army camps in 1918 were 21 and 22. Felix Manz, the first Anabaptist martyr, died at 25. John F. Funk at age 29 gave us the Herald of Truth, a periodical which literally transformed and reformed the Mennonite Church. Harold Bender at age 27 gave us the Mennonite Quarterly Review and a recovery of the Anabaptist vision with its insights for the greater works which the Church is called to perform today. And Jesus Christ Himself was only 33 at the time of His death.

Now Is the Time to Build

Students of Goshen College, in this year of our Lord 1966, the future is yours. The Lord Himself has laid the foundations upon which the grandfathers and the fathers have built. The time is now at hand for the building of a more glorious structure with your own hands.

You have the vision of what is waiting to be done. Your elders have pointed the way and stand by you even now urging you on to the greater things which they dimly saw in their time, but for the achievement of which they must depend on you—and beyond that on the generations which follow you. The way is clear. The light is green. Go forth to turn your portion of our world right side up.

Freshman on YFC S. Africa Team

A Goshen College freshman was one of six among 3,000 Youth for Christ applicants to win an appointment to the YFC Teen-to-Teen team to South Africa.

James M. Yoder '70, son of Mr. '42 and Mrs. Trennis Yoder Jr., of 4770 Reed Road, Fort Wayne, Ind., left February 6 for a month of preparation at YFC international headquarters at Wheaton, Ill. On March 1 he and three other young men, two young women, and a sponsor left for a four-month tour of South Africa. Except for the sponsor, the team members are 21 years of age and under.

The purpose of the visit is for teen to speak to teen about his faith in Jesus Christ and how God has helped him. The teen-age missionaries adhere to the personal approach—"Each one tells one."

James said that through the co-operation of YFC and the draft board, it was possible to secure permission to go without jeopardizing his student classification.

There was little difficulty in securing visas, although professional missionaries have experienced considerable frustration. The nations to receive the visitors were eager that their young citizens have a chance to meet with young persons from another nation.

Programs by the team members will include music numbers, testimonies, and short talks.

James' testimony is that "Christ is a friend of mine, and I am honored that He is my friend. I know Him personally because He has come into my heart, and He now has me in His hands. I love Him and He loves me."

James plans to continue his education at GC next year.

Nurses' Survey In Next Newsletter

A summary of results from the four-page questionnaire completed by virtually all of the graduates of the division of nursing will appear in the next Alumni Newsletter.

To be completed by April 1, the study is the first of its kind in which all graduates of the division of nursing were asked to help to evaluate the nursing curriculum and respond to the effectiveness of its educational program in their lives.

The first nurses were graduated in 1953. Today, 14 years later, Miss Mosemann, director of the division of nursing, says, "We have been eager to hear about the activities of each of our graduates and want very much to utilize their suggestions in making their Alma Mater the best possible School of Nursing."

'NY Times' Film For 72 Years

GC's library now has 72 years of the New York Times on microfilm, a permanent historical record of the nation and the world since the Times was founded in 1894.

The project to complete the New York Times microfilm files has taken five years.

The project began when the 1950-51 and the 1952 films were donated by the class of '61 and the class of '11, respectively.

Last year Prof. Willard H. Smith '28 and Dr. J. C. Meyer '16, of Goshen, furthered the project by gifts, which, when matched by the College, financed the purchase of microfilm for the years 1896 to 1925.

More recently, funds from the Higher Education Act, matched by College resources, have purchased film for the remaining years of 1894-95, 1925-49, and 1953-62. Since the library has had a subscription since 1962, this winter's acquisition gives students the advantages of the New York Times from 1894 to the present.

Especially valuable to social science and history students, the newspapers on microfilm will be of even more value when the accompanying indexes are purchased. Only the indexes for 1922-25 and 1950-66 are now available, according to Librarian James R. Clemens '35.

Four Alumni Regional Clubs Meet In Far South and Far West

AT CALIFORNIA CLUB MEETING were (not pictured in order) John D. Leatherman, Ruth Good, Perry and Eleanor Beachy, Al and Rosemary Zook, LeRoy and Irene Bechler, Sharon Nissley, Edwin L. Weaver, Ruth A. Shetler, Ben Showalter, Elizabeth Erikson, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Schweitzer, Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Weiler, Herman R. and Grace Weaver, B. F. Hartzler, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reeser, Pres. and Mrs. Mininger, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Graber (visitors from Goshen).

Four alumni clubs in the farthermost areas — Puerto Rico, Florida, California, and Colorado — met recently.

The total of regional clubs meeting since July 1 is now eight. Four more clubs have already announced plans for spring meetings.

Puerto Rico

Forty GC alumni met at Betania School, at Aibonito, P.R., the evening of December 5 and heard Pres. Mininger '34 and Dr. Henry D. Weaver Jr. speak on possibilities for changes in GC's educational program.

Prof. Weaver reported the meeting by saying, "We were most warmly received and the alumni expressed much interest in the developments associated with the program. . . ."

In charge of local arrangements was James A. Snyder '51.

Florida

Forty alumni met at Morrison's Cafeteria at Southgate Plaza in Sarasota Tuesday evening, December 27, for a dinner meeting.

Giving the main address of the evening was Dr. Roman Gingerich '41, who told about his teaching experiences at Chulalanghorn University, of Thailand.

Raymond M. Sala, of the college relations office, was chairman for the evening.

California

Pres. and Mrs. Mininger met with 30 alumni at the Church Fellowship Hall of Los Angeles Mesa Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon, January 15.

After a dessert and coffee hour, Pres. Mininger told the alumni about what is happening in the program of Christian higher education at GC and interpreted some of the proposals for major changes in its educational program.

In charge of local arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. Lester (Elma A. Shoup '44) Reeser, of Los Angeles.

Colorado

Seventy-five alumni from the Denver-Arkansas Valley-Colorado Springs areas met at the Holiday Inn, at Colorado Springs, Saturday evening, January 21.

The occasion was the third meeting of the Rocky Mountain Regional Alumni Club. Dr. Weaver discussed the proposed plan for Christian higher education at GC and also told of his year as adviser in chemistry at San Marcos University, at Lima, Peru.

In charge of arrangements were J. Stanley Charles '54, Dale A. Weaver '50, and Mrs. Delmar R. (Ruth Eigsti '51) Miller.

Second Annual Alumni College Set for June 3

Dr. Jonathan N. Roth '59

Dr. J. C. Wenger '34

Two lectures by GC profs are being planned to be informative and educational experiences for alumni on Saturday afternoon, June 3.

Last year's Alumni College, the first at GC, was received enthusiastically. Attendance was overwhelming.

Similar in nature to last year's sessions, Alumni College lectures this year will be built on a broad base; thus, the question and answer periods after each lecture will not be limited to the narrowly technical and specialized facets of the fields of theology and biology, which have been chosen for this year's College.

* "The Nature of Biblical Authority," will be discussed by Dr. J. C. Wenger '34, professor of historical theology at GC's seminary. His lecture will point to areas of interest and relevance in the current situation in the Protestant church.

* "A Field Experience in Marine Biology," will be discussed by Dr. Jonathan N. Roth '59, associate professor of biology. His lecture will include some of the scientific experiences he and a group of GC students had last year during spring vacation. Because of its value, the Florida field experience has been lengthened to 2½ weeks and will be repeated for another group of students this summer.

* More Alumni College details, including time and place, will be announced in the May issue of the Alumni Newsletter.

A Special Editorial on the Board Meeting

Your board of directors met on Saturday, Jan. 28, 1967, at Goshen College in official biennial session.

The board heard a number of reports:

* Major accomplishments on campus last year were the construction of Orie O. Miller Hall for 132 women residents, the paving of new driveways and parking lots on the east campus and to the west of High Park, and renovation of the bookstore, snack shop, post office, and Union Lounge.

* Progress on the Harold and Wilma Good Library is on schedule. The library is four stories (one floor completely underground) with accommodations for 600 readers and 250,000 volumes. It is to be ready for occupancy next fall.

To Add Boiler

* The College expects to add a boiler in the heating plant and renovate the Memorial Library, likely for use by the art and speech departments. The ground floor of Kulp Hall, now used by the art department, will be used by the commerce department, now housed on the ground floor of the Ad Building.

* A campus life committee of about 60 students plus a number of faculty and staff and Mr. Frank Noffke, national authority on student life and recreation facilities, has met four times. The upshot of the meetings has been to suggest facilities that complement existing lounges, recreation rooms, and other services for use during the non-study hours of students. Campus morale has increased significantly because of the work of the committee.

Thank You

* Two resolutions were passed by the Board. One was a thank you to the 10-man President's Advisory Board for its work in improving College-community relations in the past six years. The second was a thank you to Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good for their gift making possible the new library.

* The proposed study-service term whereby most students would live and work in an overseas setting for 14 weeks was discussed. The program will enable students to have the advantage of an experience outside their culture, country, and language area in their college years when they are building value structures vital to their lives years after they have been graduated. One-half of the study-service term would be devoted to study of the nation's culture, economics, politics, art, music, government, and its people. The other half would be devoted to nonremunerative service. Groups of students will be in Haiti and the Barbados the summer of 1967 to give the idea a trial run.

* The proposed study-service term was presented as one of six ideas for changes in the future educational program of Goshen College. The faculty is presently discussing the merits of year-round operation, a trimester system, required attendance by students at two spring-summer trimesters during their college career, a revised general education curriculum, and courses more nearly the same size. (An in-depth report of the proposed changes is planned for the April issue of the GC Bulletin. — Ed.)

Alumni to Assist in Admissions

* A program involving alumni and parents of recent alumni has been set up by the Admissions Office. Known as College Admissions Representatives, many of the persons have already been active in informally encouraging high school students to give good consideration to GC.

* The College is virtually on target in achieving its goals for the first half of the five-year $3½-million 75th Anniversary Development Program, 1965-69.

* High lights of alumni events last year were many. There was excellent attendance at the two sessions of the First Annual Alumni College on June 4. The $100,000 1966 Alumni Annual Fund goal was exceeded by $792.01. Thirteen regional alumni clubs met throughout the year. There was good attendance at eight class reunions and at the Alumni Banquet last June 4.

Four Persons Selected

* Four persons were selected for three-year terms (1967-70) on the board and their names will be presented for ratification at the annual business meeting on June 3. The persons selected were Mrs. Ellis (Charlotte Hertzler '53) Croyle, Mrs. Paul (Barbara Amstutz '58) Hodel, Dr. M. Willis Sutter '51, and Dr. Stan J. Strycker '53. Dr. Strycker is presently a member of the board; the other three are new persons and replace Mrs. Abner (Anne Krabill '58) Hershberger, Dr. Myrl A. Nafziger '50, and Allen J. Stuckey '64, whose terms expire this year.

* The board re-elected Pres. Frank Ulrich '55 and Vice-president Larry Beachy '57. Mrs. C. Richard (Edith King '40) was elected fifth member, replacing Mrs. Abner Hershberger. Mrs. Henry (Esther Eash '46) Yoder was elected a representative to the Mennonite Board of Education; she replaces Mrs. Ernest R. (Lois Gunden '36) Clemens.

* The board discussed procedures for studying organizational changes and revision of the constitution. The president was given the responsibility to appoint a committee of three, with himself and the secretary-treasurer as ex officio members, to consider the issues and bring a recommendation to the next board meeting. (An in-depth report focusing on the organization and the constitution of the Alumni Association is planned for a future issue of the Newsletter. — Ed.)

Comments Enthusiastic

Comments from board members about the meeting were enthusiastic:

"Ambitious agenda, massive reports . . . more challenge for tomorrow" (Roy Umble '35).

"The group . . . carried on very well and acted wisely" (Mrs. Lois Clemens '36).

"Ambitious and stimulating" (Stanley J. Strycker '53).

"Plans for reorganization seem in right direction; more effective use should be made of association and board members" (Mrs. Dierra Lehman '65).

You, Your Company, Your Boss, and Your Alma Mater

Is your company listed below?

If you are employed by one of these companies or any of their subsidiaries, then your gifts are of double value to Goshen College.

These companies match dollar for dollar your gift for higher education. Think what that means.

If you are not sure about your company, ask your boss. And if he doesn't know, tell him to please find out for you.

Chances are your boss will be happy to hear about the matching-gift-for-higher-education plan.

Tell him all you can about it because he knows that colleges are America's best friends.

Library and Basketball Highlight News, Winter, 1967

CONSTRUCTION of the Harold and Wilma Good Library progresses on schedule with the aid of 12,000 square feet of polyethylene plastic to protect the concrete in the curing process and the workers from winter's cold and wind.

EXCEL INDUSTRIES, INC., of Hesston, Kansas, presented GC a mower recently. K. King, director of physical plant, is seated on the mower, beside Paul Wenger (left) and John Regier (center).

KEITH SPRINGER, 42, was a leading scorer for the Maple Leafs this season. Owing to a misunderstanding on eligibility of a transfer student, the team voluntarily forfeited five games, making a final official record of 11-7.

PRES. MININGER welcomes three new members to the Board of Overseers. Left to right: Pres. Mininger '34, Glen E. Yoder '28, Shipshewana, Ind.; Daniel Yutzy, Marilla, N.Y.; and Willis L. Breckbill '54, Canton, Ohio.

NEW YORK PRO MUSICA will be the L-M October 28, Homecoming '67. Plan now to return for the weekend.

Class of '62 Answers Alumni Poll

Mrs. Jacob L. (Marlene Landis) Alderfer Jr., of Souderton, Pa., is mother of one and active in the Plains Church W.M.S.A. and local Y.M.C.A. Husband is a member of '61 . . . L. Sanford Alwine, of Akron, Ohio, is a social worker for the Summit County Child Welfare Board and director-case worker of Portage Family Counseling and Mental Health Center. Master's in social work, Indiana U., '66. One child.

John A. Amstutz is teaching high school physics, chemistry, math, and band at the American School of Kinshasa in Republic of Congo. He and his wife will complete their one-year assignment later this spring and return home via England . . . Rose Marie Batch, of Goshen, Ind., is the junior high-elementary librarian at Bremen public schools. She has attended Indiana U. the past five summers and expects to be graduated with the master's in library science this June.

Painter-Teacher

Joni Beachy, of Goshen, Ind., teaches at Clinton Christian Day School and is a painter in off-school hours. Besides, he is pastor at Mt. Joy Conservative Mennonite Church, and father of four. Marilee Kay was born January 12, 1967. . . . Kenneth R. Bender, of Stratford, Ont., was pastor of Avon Mennonite Church for four years. Since last June he has been a social worker for the Children's Aid Society of the County of Perth. His duties include family counseling, foster and adoptive home finding, supervision of adoptions, and counseling of unmarried parents. "It is a most rewarding vocation as one is constantly involved with persons in need." He is involved in a number of church activities — general secretary of Western Ontario Christian Nurture Council, stewardship secretary of Western Ontario Conference, chairman of Southwestern Ontario Religious Film Council, chairman of the commission of community projects of the Stratford and District Council of Churches, and secretary of Stratford and District Ministerial Association. Two children; one at GC. One child, Richard Brent, born May 14, 1964, was received for adoption Dec. 3, 1966. "Mrs. Bender has been active in community organizations."

Mrs. M. Daniel (Marian Martin) Berry, of Caldwell, Idaho, taught Grade 3 for four years at Gomer, Ohio. She was married to Daniel '66 last June; after a tour of Europe and the Holy Land they entered VS. She writes, "We are serving Mexicans at a Spanish labor camp. Dan sets up a recreational program for the fellows. I teach in a large day care center. We enjoy our work." . . . Larry W. and Karen (Schultz) Birky, of Wauconda, Ill., are the parents of a son and are expecting their second about March 1. Larry received the bachelor's in business education from Illinois State U. in '65 and is presently working on the master's at Northern Illinois State U. He worked in the accounting department at Mennonite Hospital at Bloomington for three years; now he is teacher and department chairman of the business education department at Wauconda High. They attend the Evangelical Free Church.

Junior High Teacher

Melvin G. Birky, of Denver, Colo., was office manager at Goshen College until 1964, when he moved to Colorado. Now he is teaching in a Denver junior high school, and is anticipating completing requirements for the M.A. in June. Married to Jane Ann Zehr '60; one child . . . Selma Bixler, of Winnetka, Ill., helps to prepare food for about 4,000 pupils and 300 faculty and staff at New Trier High School. She sings in the sanctuary choir of the Winnetka Bible Church.

Mary Brubacher, of Scarborough, Ont., is secretary at Birchmount Park Collegiate Institute, Sunday-school teacher, Wayfarer girls' club leader, and part-time secretary for her pastor. She sings with the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir and the Schoolhouse Singers . . . Mrs. David D. (Fern L. Graybill) Brunner, of Akron, Ohio, writes that her second daughter, Marta Lane, was born January 16. Husband '60 is pastor of Summit Christian Fellowship, of Akron, and is a social caseworker for the County Child Welfare Board.

Assistant Bacteriologist

Raymond H. Book Jr., of Hanover, N.H., is assistant bacteriologist at Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital and Clinic. He attended the U. of New Hampshire, completed a year of internship at Mary Hitchcock, and last November became a registered medical technologist, specializing in bacteriology. He attends the Hanover United Church of Christ and is on the recruiting committee of the Occom Federal Credit Union . . . James W. Byler, of Berkeley, Calif., received the M.S. in plant pathology at West Virginia U. in June, 1964; he is now a graduate student and research assistant at the U. of Calif.

Percy W. Cassel, of Nappanee, Ind., expects to receive the M.A. degree in elementary education this summer at Ball State U. He "thoroughly enjoys" his sixth grade class at South Elementary School in Nappanee, where he has taught for the last five years. He frequently preaches for local pastors; he is president of the Wa-Nee Teachers' Assn. this year, and adult Bible class teacher at the Brethren in Christ Church. Married; three children . . . Roy E. Christianson, of East Peoria, Ill., is in his first year of teaching the

March Is Month to Respond to '67 Fund

* March '67 for '67 Alumni Annual Fund

The month of March is the time for conducting intensively the '67 Alumni Annual Fund.

* The Goal — $100,000 + $33,000

The goal for '67 is in two parts — $100,000 for the bread-and-butter, daily operations of the school, plus $33,000, one-third of a three-year goal, 1967-69, of $100,000 for endowment.

* "Designated" Gifts Accepted

Funds for the very heart of the operations at GC are the goal this year, but alumni as always, including this year, may designate their funds. Operating funds include instruction, general administration, general institutional and public services, library services, organized research, operation and maintenance of physical plant, student aid and scholarships, student services, and partially self-supporting programs. The operating budget is so broad that each giver can find something in it to designate his gift for.

* "Undesignated" Gifts for Operating Purposes

Only after the operating budget is balanced can needs of the ongoing capital program be met. Hence, the 1967 Alumni Annual Fund is at the very center of GC's daily existence. Campus improvement, development, and expansion — all of which have been represented in alumni fund projects in the past — in reality are actually accomplished only after operating funds have been assured.

* Endowment Funds Required

Someone has said, "A college without endowment is like a home without income." Endowment has the advantage of perpetuity. The combination of goals in this year's Alumni Annual Fund provides an extra measure of flexibility for alumni to make sizable gifts to their Alma Mater.

* Personal Visits Set for Many Areas

The ideal is for each alumnus to be visited by another alumnus. But this is not practical in certain areas, because of transportation difficulties and in other cases, isolation of alumni from the main centers of alumni concentration. It is planned that those not visited will be reached by mail.

* Your Opportunity Is Now

The '67 Alumni Annual Fund is your opportunity to invest in the continuing growth and development of the Christian college that has given you so much. Now you have the opportunity of showing your interest and concern for today's students as they prepare for lives of Christian service, by your support of the Alumni Annual Fund.

Taking part in the Fund are more than 600 persons. Space does not permit naming all of them, but the national chairman, state area chairmen, and district chairmen are named below (up to date as of press time).

GOSHEN COLLEGE BULLETIN APRIL 1967

Counselors and Pastors Strengthen Church and College Ties

For seven years Ray M. Sala and Goshen College Counselors, along with their pastors, have worked toward closer co-operation between the college and the Mennonite Church in rising to the opportunities of Christian higher education.

It is not unusual for persons who are not well acquainted with the college and who do not know its teachers, students, or officers on a personal basis to believe any rumor—good or bad—about an institution, Ray says.

He sums up his job as one of interpreting the college to and receiving counsel from Counselors, pastors, and lay leaders. Beginning in the Illinois, Indiana-Michigan, Ohio and Eastern, Allegheny, and Ontario conference districts, the program reached out in 1964 to include Franconia Conference as well.

The persons with whom Ray works must gain an acquaintance with the persons responsible for the total program of the college. They must understand the school's purposes and activities.

This accomplished, they are ready to help others to understand the college and its work in the life and witness of the Mennonite brotherhood. The results are a more thorough understanding not only of Christian higher education but also of its many requirements, including the financial.

A Hurdle at the Beginning

From the very beginning of the Counselor-pastor program, there were hurdles to cross.

The first major obstructions were fear and suspicion on the part of many that the program was just another gimmick to obtain money.

Interestingly enough, the acceptance of the Counselor-pastor program, first by five conferences, followed three years later by a sixth, has been accompanied by increases in church giving.

But the increases in gifts came as a result of better communications, not because of direct appeals for funds. Besides, better communication has meant gains in other areas as well—the recruiting of students, and stewardship in the total life of the church.

Congregation and Its Stewardship

It is exciting for Ray to recall how a large congregation in a well-established Mennonite area has progressed in its stewardship program. Paying little attention to Goshen College before and during the early years of the Counselor-pastor program, the congregation has completely reversed its patterns, not only toward the college but in other areas of church life as well.

Today members of this congregation are unafraid to step forward. They eagerly give of their time and resources for Sunday-school teaching,

The Choice of Preparation for a Professional Nurse

Mr. and Mrs. Yoder, of Centerville, Ohio, have a son and daughter interested in nursing.

With a selection of folders and information pieces laid out before them on the kitchen table, they are faced with a number of decisions.

What program should they choose? Who will be their teachers? Where will they be taught? When will they enroll and how long will it take? How much money will it cost?

They may also ask, "Why are there three routes to becoming a registered nurse—four-year collegiate program, two-year junior college, and hospital school of nursing?

Mr. and Mrs. Yoder pause. Have they overlooked the basic issue?

Education and the Educated

Miss Orpah B. Mosemann, director of the division of nursing at Goshen College, recalls that for her mother an eighth grade education was respectable.

"In my era," Miss Mosemann says, "high school was adequate. But for today's youth many consider the bachelor's degree as the minimum."

The penetration of this thinking is felt in every educational circle today. Nursing has not been left out.

In 1965 the American Nurses' Association in its Position Paper states, "Education for those who work in nursing should take place in institutions of learning within the general system of education."

Interpreted, the statement merely means that a school which has as its sole purpose the education of students is best qualified to prepare professional nurses.

This position varies from that taken by hospitals with their programs of preparation. A main criticism of their programs voiced over the years goes something like this: The care of patients is the basic reason to be for the hospital. The hospital school of nursing prepares persons to give patients this care. When the requirements of patient care reach a certain limit, nursing students are asked to devote their energies to patients, many times at the expense of their own education.

Expenses for the Hospital

When nursing education centers in the college, the college contracts with hospitals to make clinical experience available to students. Hence, the hospitals have little expense in administering the educational program. This is not true if the hospitals must underwrite costly expenses of supervisors, teachers, laboratories, and classrooms for their own schools of nursing.

The economies, or rather, non-economies, of hospital schools of nursing have set a national pattern. The number of hospital schools of nursing is on the decline: from 883 in 1960-61 to 821 in 1964-65. During the same period baccalaureate programs of nursing increased from 174 to 198.

Another aspect often overlooked centers in who pays for nursing education. In hospitals with nursing schools, the financial burden of nursing educa-summer Bible school positions, education, mission outreach, and a host of other congregational responsibilities.

None of this, including an understanding of the Christian higher education program at the college, would have been accomplished without the congregation unitedly seeing its responsibility for Christian stewardship.

30,000 Miles a Year

Visiting personally with Counselors and pastors requires up to two-thirds of Ray's time each year. To reach them he puts 30,000 miles on his car every 12 months.

His personal visits may be in connection with the annual Counselors' and pastors' dinner meetings, one to five of which are held in each conference area in late winter. Or his visits may be at another time during the year to discuss frankly how the college may better meet the needs of a particular congregation.

Today, after seven years, the Counselors and pastors are quite frank with Ray when they have concerns. Even though other men from the college go with Ray to the annual meetings, the Counselors and pastors frequently wait until after the question and answer period, then single out Ray for their most personal questions.

Some time ago one Counselor questioned Ray on a number of practices at the college. Not having the precise answers, Ray jotted down the questions and when he arrived home, he obtained the answers and made his reply.

Sometime later this Counselor apologized to Ray for ever doubting the sincerity of the college and for even raising his questions in the first place. All to the good, there is now more confidence on this Counselor's part than there was earlier, Ray says.

Subjects Varied

Each year Ray takes a special program to the Counselors and pastors. Each is planned to delve tion really falls on the sick, who already are handicapped with reduced earning power. Hence it is argued that nursing education expenses should be borne by the general public, not the sick alone.

Regardless of criticisms or trends, hospital schools of nursing continue to graduate about 70 per cent of all registered nurses. Requiring three years, the program combines theory and experience; its focus is on nursing care of hospital patients.

A diploma from a hospital school signifies the top of the ladder for virtually all its students. Only by meeting requirements for a bachelor's degree, which may take up to three more years, and at a college, may one be eligible for more preparation.

Nurses at College

If the Yoders' son or daughter chooses a collegiate program, he can decide between a two-year and a four-year program.

On the surface there are a number of differences evident immediately. Beside length of time, the two-year program is on a junior-college level, similar to freshman and sophomore courses in a four-year college.

Further, the two-year program is designed to prepare nursing technicians—persons who aspire to be competent in the many nursing skills, including making beds, bathing patients, giving medications.

Like the hospital diploma, the two-year program is also the top of the ladder; transfer into a bachelor's degree program for advanced preparation is possible, but up to three more years of college may be required—in the end a longer and more expensive route to a baccalaureate degree.

In contrast, the four-year program includes freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior level courses. The extra two college years, and upper-level at that, allow for considerable instruction in depth in the theory and philosophy of nursing and an understanding of the needs of the total person, so essential to professional nursing.

Broad Background

Required are courses in the natural sciences—a year both of chemistry and of anatomy and physiology, and courses in microbiology and nutrition.

Heart massage, understanding the effects of new drugs, use of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, operation of intensive care equipment, and many more duties are required of today's nurse. Can the nurse perform a duty with an understanding of why it is done? There is good probability she will if she has the required background courses in science.

An unmarried teenager has a baby. What can be the relationship of this girl to her parents after she leaves the hospital? What can be the relationship of the new mother to her baby?

An elderly person undergoes major surgery, and the operation is successful. Why does the patient not get well?

Chances are good that the Yoders' son and daughter will be much better prepared to cope with these and similar situations if they have an intelligent understanding of sociology and marriage and the family from college-level social science courses.

A three-year-old is quarantined on the pediatrics floor. What quiet activities will entertain him?

A 15-year-old is a patient on the medical floor. Is his behavior normal for his age?

Why persons behave the way they do is one aspect of the study of the behavioral sciences. If the Yoders' son and daughter choose the four-year collegiate program, their course of studies will include general psychology and developmental psychology, both essential for the broad education of a professional nurse.

A married woman has terminal cancer. A young father has contracted a rare fatal disease.

What is the responsibility of the nurse to be a spiritual counselor to these patients? Bible courses as well as encouragement from Goshen's nursing faculty make it possible for students to respond to the spiritual needs which patients present. It may mean listening, reading Scripture, praying, or calling a minister for them.

Experience vs. Theory

One argument in nursing circles is that graduates of collegiate schools of nursing do not have enough work experience to become good staff nurses immediately after graduation.

But this view is not substantiated by the facts. Over and over again Miss Mosemann receives letters like this one:

"After we were initially adjusted—two weeks orientation plus a couple more on the job—we were able to compete, as far as work load is concerned, with the grads of hospital schools. In addition, we understood the 'why' of what we were doing."

The letter was from three recent graduates who had accepted positions at a large university hospital.

Cautiously Miss Mosemann does explain that the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree is not adequate for just anything a young nurse decides to do. For one thing, a fledgling nurse is not prepared for administration, like the position of director of nursing services, even at a small hospital.

For another, she is not prepared for the many duties often thrust upon a missionary nurse, such as diagnosing ills and prescribing and administering treatment, practices done only by a physician.

But the new graduate does have the basic background essential for further preparation for a career in administration, consultation, research, and advanced nursing specialties, which are offered at many universities.

A Vista of Opportunities

The son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yoder, if they choose a four-year collegiate program and meet successfully its requirements, will have open to them a vista of opportunities.

Beside preparing young persons for professional nursing, a church-owned and controlled school like Goshen aims to help its students be conscious of the many avenues of Christian witness through the profession.

In addition to the numerous openings at community-operated hospitals across the nation, there into a vital issue of Christian higher education or to interpret the thinking behind a program at the college.

- 1967—New Dimensions in the Future of the College, by Pres. Mininger, Dean Carl Kreider, Dr. J. Daniel Hess, Ralph J. Gunden, and J. B. Shenk

Either before or after the main presentation, a number of other topics receive attention. Discipline of students almost always comes up. Rising costs, the avalanche of community and public junior colleges, content of Bible courses, and forecasts of admissions and enrollment are among other items also likely to receive attention.

Attendance at the meetings is good. In one conference area, all but one congregation had representatives at the Counselors' and pastors' meetings last year. If the Counselor or pastor could not be present, he sent his representative.

The Surface Scratched

In seven years a small group of persons—600 Counselors and pastors from conferences with a combined membership of more than 40,000—has become informed and motivated As a result, there is today a small base of understanding from which many persons in each congregation may be reached.

Some years only Counselors and pastors received invitations to dinner meetings. At other times lay leaders were included. Wives have also been vitally interested and some have come along to a couple of the meetings.

With more and more interest being shown, there is much evidence that the Counselor and pastor program will have to grow. Parents of prospective students, parents of present students, alumni, and friends are among those to be included in some way in the future.

Because the Mennonite Church is so closely related to the college, the base of understanding can only become larger.

A latecomer, as denominations go, in accepting higher education, the Mennonite Church must continue to relay information to Goshen College as well as receive information from the college if both are to stay well informed of the many challenges and requirements before Christian higher education today.

is a wide range of assignments possible under the denomination-wide and district mission boards, Mennonite Central Committee, and Mennonite Relief and Service Committee. There is hardly ever a shortage of openings at their mental health centers, general hospitals, and nursing homes sprinkled across the country, and in their hospitals, refugee centers, and public health positions around the world.

If the young graduates prefer advanced preparation, they can choose among many clinical areas, including public health, psychiatric nursing, medical-surgical nursing, maternal-child nursing, to name only four. The B.S. in Nursing degree is their ticket for entrance, usually without deficiencies, to any university in the United States and Canada.

Virtually numberless are the careers after the master's degree is earned. Teaching, administration, and research are among the broad categories.

Even greater is the demand for nurses with the doctor's degree.

Shortage Severe

Severe is the shortage of nurses today. Two floors at Elkhart General Hospital in Northern Indiana have not been opened, owing to insufficient supply of qualified nurses. Many communities across the nation are afflicted in the same way, often to a much greater degree.

Gone is the myth that any woman with the woman's touch can be a nurse. Effective nursing care comes only after a thorough grounding in nursing skills, knowledge of the modern sciences, mastery of the use of new and complex instruments, and competent skills in performing critical procedures.

According to a report by the Surgeon General, the nation needs 850,000 nurses by 1970. Of them, 200,000 should have at least the baccalaureate degree, and 100,000 should have graduate preparation. All nursing education programs are helpful in meeting these goals. Goshen College's program contributes toward meeting the national need for the 200,000 professional nurses.

Suppose Mr. and Mrs. Yoders' son and daughter choose the four-year program. Well-qualified instructors, all dedicated Christians, and the stimulating environment of a church college campus can be theirs at Goshen.

Prof. Lindenbaum To Teach August Music Course

The resource person for up to 25 voice students at the summer music course, to be at Goshen College August 1-26, will be Prof. Theo Lindenbaum, of Detmold Music Conservatory, of Germany.

Open to experienced singers and college students with promising talent, the course will include choral work, individual voice studies, an opera workshop, and a number of public concerts.

Also on the faculty will be Prof. George Wiebe, music director of Canadian Mennonite Bible College, Prof. William Baerg, of the faculty of music of Mennonite Brethren Bible College, and Prof. David Falk and Dr. Mary Oyer, both of Goshen College's department of music.

To gain admission, a singer or student had to be recommended by his teacher. A balance of voices in the group will assure a well-rounded ensemble.

Each person selected for participation will be required to know a repertoire of music before he arrives on campus. Hence, a number of vocal ensembles will be ready to perform in public concerts early in the month.

A similar intensive month of study was held at Canadian Mennonite Bible College last summer.

Gift Annuity Facts Available

Rates of up to 8 per cent are available on gift annuity agreements at Goshen College.

For one who wants to give to the cause of Christian higher education, but wishes a modest income, largely tax free, from the principal for the rest of his life, a gift annuity agreement may be the answer.

More facts and information are available from the Office of the President, Goshen College.

Five Study Programs Abroad This Summer

A group of students will be in Haiti this summer to study the old with the new, a nation in transition.

Goshen College is providing five opportunities for study outside continental United States during the summer of 1967.

Two seminars, one in Haiti and one in Barbados, will serve as experimental kick-offs for the College's proposed program of study and service abroad. Students taking part in either project will divide their time equally between study and service. Study hours will be devoted to the history, government, economics, literature, religions, social customs, arts, and sciences of the country.

Service activity may include building projects, irrigation programs, tutoring secondary school students or work in recreation camps or hospitals.

Most of the students will live in the homes of nationals; some may live in MCC or other centers.

Directors in Haiti will be Prof. and Mrs. Marion Wenger, both full-time teachers at the College. Directors in Barbados will be Dr. and Mrs. Roy Umble.

A Central American Travel Seminar will include a tour through Mexico and Guatemala. The major part of the program will consist of lectures by prominent El Salvadoreños and field trips to places of importance.

"The Church and Social Change in Europe" will be the subject of the European educational tour, to be spent in study at cities in England, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Germany, and Czechoslovakia. The program represents a new type of study of Europe —a "floating classroom." The last three weeks will be spent in international voluntary service, wherein students will work on projects with persons from a variety of nations.

The fifth program, the nursing seminar in Haiti, will center in the health needs and nursing practice in a developing country. It will consist of lectures and discussions on Haitian culture, geography, economics, current health problems, and medical and nursing practice. Students will be assigned to clinical practice in hospital wards and clinics. Emphasis will be placed on cross-cultural communications.

Summer Sessions Begin Tuesday, June 6

The first of four three-week sessions of summer school at Goshen College will begin on June 6.

Courses in English, French, library science, music, speech, history, political science, biology, physical education, religion, secondary education, psychology, nursing, chemistry, art, home economics, Bible, sociology, natural science, elementary education, and mathematics will be offered.

Of the 51 courses slated for the summer, 11 are open to high school graduates of 1967 who wish to start college early or accelerate in their college program.

Among the courses are two field trips. One is a course in marine biology to be taught in Florida by Dr. Jonathan N. Roth. The second is a course in mineralogy to be taught by Dr. Glen R. Miller; it will include visits to certain richly mineralized areas in the Black Hills of South Dakota; Colorado; Galena, Kan.; Picher, Okla.; Elizabethtown, Ill.; and the limestone caves of Southern Indiana.

More information and a copy of the summer sessions folder is available from the Office of the Dean at Goshen College.

College Preview Set for June 24 - July 1

High school juniors wanting to discover what college is all about are invited to take part in the eighth annual College Preview at Goshen June 24-July 1.

High lights of the week will be taking part in study workshops, attending seminars, using the library and laboratories, visiting college classes, attending chapel and worship services, and taking part in a number of informal as well as organized recreation activities.

Mom and Dad are invited, too, and will be guests of Goshen College the first weekend. There is no better time for them to get the answers they need.

Director of College Preview is Mr. John M. Zook, associate director of admissions. More information and registration forms may be obtained from him.

Dr. Redekop to Join Faculty Next Fall

Pres. Mininger has announced the appointment of Dr. Calvin Redekop to the faculty as professor of sociology in the College.

Prof. Redekop will also take part in the President's Committee on the Future of the College and devote some time to research in sociology. In addition, he will be lecturer in a Biblical Seminary course, "Christianity and Society"; as part of this assignment he will seek to find opportunities for seminary students to take part in supervised experiences in ministry in an industrial setting.

Mr. Redekop, now on the faculty of Earlham College, is a 1949 graduate of Goshen College. He received the master's degree at the University of Minnesota in 1955 and the doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Chicago in 1959.

For All You Love, Make a Will

Goshen College is co-operating in the church-wide 1966-67 wills emphasis year. The emphasis is significant for each adult in the College's constituency because:

1. The property each person possesses, real or personal, represents the work of a lifetime. Certainly he will want to exercise due diligence in determining how it shall be used in the event of his death. This can be done only through a will or legal instrument.

2. Those who have minor children are responsible to see that they are properly cared for materially and directed socially and spiritually in the event that both parents are taken in death at or near the same time. A will is the only legal means of appointing guardians and trustees for them. In the absence of a will, the probate court will do it, perhaps basing its decisions on criteria much different from the parents'.

3. Many persons have exercised careful Christian stewardship of possessions during life and will want to use the same good stewardship in disposing of their estates. Certainly a minimum of a tithe should go to the church and the institutions in which they have the most interest. Goshen College will welcome an increasing number of bequests to help further its program of Christian higher education in the future.

The making of a will is an individual matter for each person. Likewise, the love shown in the will is love on a personal basis, with no one or any group interfering in any way.

For all you love, make a will. Let God's will be seen in yours.

Young Musicians to Have Summer Music Week

High school sophomores, juniors, and seniors with interest in music are invited to take part in an intensive music week at Goshen College June 24-July 1.

Among the high lights will be sessions in music theory and history of music, and participation in a small chamber music group, mass choir, or orchestra. The climax of the week will be performing at an evening concert.

More information is available from Mr. John M. Zook, associate director of admissions.

Survey of Nursing Graduates Shows Virtually All in Profession; They Rate Their Preparation 'Adequate' to 'Superior'

Graduates of GC's division of nursing have tended to stay in the nursing profession rather than leave it for another, according to a study just completed.

Further, the graduates tend to feel that their preparation at GC has been adequate for their practice.

The results of the study are derived from the four-page questionnaries returned by 248 of 293 graduates—an 84.6 per cent response. The early classes' response rates were somewhat higher than those of the more recent, probably because the questionnaire was designed more for the nurse who had been in the profession more than one or two years.

* Of the respondents, 72.5 per cent are married, 26.7 per cent are single, 0.8 per cent are widowed.

* Over half of those married have chosen mates who are educators, social workers, research scientists, and other persons who have had many years of formal preparation. Five per cent of the respondents are married to ministers; 10½ per cent are married to physicians. Another five per cent are married to students currently working on M.D.'s, Ph.D.'s, and other advanced degrees.

* Five-eights of the total respondents are currently employed in full-time nursing. Two per cent have definitely left nursing for another profession. The others are not currently employed or are working part-time.

Additional Study

* Seventeen per cent of all graduates have taken additional study after leaving GC, but only a third of these have completed a degree program.

* For those who have taken graduate work, medical-surgical nursing has been the most popular. Public health and psychiatric nursing rank next. Just about all who took graduate work were preparing for teaching; a few, however, listed their reasons as more preparation desired in their clinical specialties, or preparation for administration or for counseling and guidance responsibilities.

* Forty-six per cent of all the graduates have attended special workshops. Medical-surgical nursing, inservice education, public health, human relations, and maternal-child health workshops have been attended the most often.

* One out of eight respondents has served professionally in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, or in the Caribbean area. Nurses who have practiced beyond the borders of United States and Canada have tended to give from two to four years of service.

Express Satisfaction with GC's Program

* The graduates expressed overwhelmingly their satisfaction with the education they received at GC. Many made positive comments pertaining to their feelings of adequacy as they practice nursing side by side with nurses from many schools. They agreed virtually unanimously that the preparation given them in nursing techniques, medical-surgical nursing care, principles of human relations, principles of problem solving, spiritual counseling methods, chemistry, microbiology, psychology, and sociology were superior or adequate. On the other hand, graduates of the earlier years felt some deficiencies in public health nursing; an abrupt change of opinion beginning with the class of 1961 reflects the strengthening of courses in this area in the early '60's. A number of recent graduates, although small in comparison to the total respondents from their classes, indicated deficient areas in operating room nursing and in anatomy and physiology.

* Graduates tend to read American Journal of Nursing more than any other nurses' magazine. They tend to read current events magazines and a daily paper regularly, and women's and topical magazines only occasionally. Eighty-eight per cent of them have read at least one book in the two months preceding their returning the questionnaire.

The study was the first of its kind in which all the graduates of the division of nursing were asked to help to evaluate the nursing curriculum and respond to the effectiveness of its educational program in their lives.

The faculty of the division wants to thank all who took part in the study and for contributing to the results which will be used in a continuing evaluation and improvement of GC's nursing education program.

Barbados Is One of Three Sites This Summer For Experimental Study-Service Term Abroad

Population density of Barbados, site of GC's experimental study-service term abroad this summer, is one of the world's highest. Proudly the small nation (166 sq. mi.) boasts one of the world's lowest illiteracy rates. A young nation, Barbados achieved full independence last November 30.

Former Missionary Now Schoolteacher

Mrs. Bennie J. (Ruth Zook) Fadenrecht, of York Springs, Pa., teaches Grade 2 at Monroe Elementary School in Allen, Pa. She is active in three parent-teachers' associations, where she teaches and where her two children go to school, and she is a member of the N.E.A. and the state and local education associations. She writes, "We have lived in Pennsylvania since 1955. From 1950 to 1955 we were at a missionary children's school in La Cumbre, Valle, Colombia, South America, under the Mennonite Brethren Mission Board. From 1944, when I was married, to 1950 we lived in Michigan and then in Kansas." In addition to her school duties, she's also a junior Sunday-school class teacher and in charge of junior church, along with her husband; she's president of the Adams County W.C.T.U., and she's taken summer school at Shippensburg State College the last two years. Husband teaches Grade 5.... Mrs. Otis (Ruth E. Brenneman) Fair, of Fort Wayne, Ind. writes, "After graduation, I taught two years at Wakarusa, Ind.; then I was married and I taught for six years Grade 1 of a school near Fort Wayne. For the past 16 years I have done the office work of my husband's business, which is selling peat moss and top soil, and have raised our son, 16, and daughter, 11. I belong to the United Missionary Church where I am primary department superintendent and active in the missionary society. Also take part in P.T.A. and school music activities.... We live in a suburban addition next to a low lying area. My husband has various excavating equipment so he has dug several fish ponds. We have one near the house which we use for swimming. For 11 years my brother Paul '48 was pastor of our church here. Another brother Wayne '47 is presently home on furlough from Nigeria."

Lloyd J. Fisher, of Enugu, Nigeria, writes, "Presently Mrs. Fisher and I are serving our second three-year term in Nigeria under the Mennonite Church. I am business manager of our mission and live in Enugu, capital of the Eastern Region. This means a lot of detail with funds, immigration and customs problems and permits, and being secretary of the field committee. I do the detail work so a missionary can do what he is supposed to do. I am also administrator of Teachers Abroad Program for Mennonite Central Committee in Nigeria. We now have eight families and three single fellows in TAP. MCC also has two Pax fellows in Nigeria as well who come under my administration.... We attend the local Presbyterian Church, which has just elected me to the congregational board. Mrs. Fisher and I were on the committee to set up the program for unveiling the corner stone of the new church. We also serve on various Christian council committees in Enugu and throughout the region.... My wife taught school in Oregon 13 years before we came to Nigeria. She keeps up her teaching by teaching a literacy class in a local clinic for young mothers.... Our only child, Darrell, is a freshman at Hesston. He was a member of that soccer team that defeated GC last fall, but maybe I shouldn't mention that. He learned to play soccer the two years he was in Nigeria with us before returning to the States for his education there."

Retired and at Home

Lillie B. Garwood, of South Bend, Ind., is retired and is taking care of the home in which there are two older sisters. "I sing in the choir, play the piano for the junior department, and am substitute Bible school teacher."... Mrs. Clarence W. (Elizabeth Plank) Geil, of Gulfport, Miss., is homemaker and Grade 3 teacher at Bayou View elementary school. She's adult sponsor of the girls' club and teaches kindergarten II Sunday school at Crossroads Bible Church. Husband is city letter carrier and draftsman; two children.

Mrs. Donald F. (Mary Elizabeth Harnish) Gilkeson, of Monica, Ill., wife, mother, and homemaker, writes, "We reside on a timberland farm in Jubilee Twp., Peoria County. The renovation of the very old deserted house, now our home, was a family project. My husband is a tool and die maker at Benedict Engineering Co., of East Peoria. He also farms 160 acres. Our eight children are ages 24 through 4. Oldest son is a computer analyst, and the next to the oldest is a college senior. Our oldest daughter is married, lives in Elgin, Ill., and has presented us with our first grandchild, now a three-month-old girl." The Gilkesons are members of Laura Methodist Church. ...Lena Graber, of Kathmandu, Nepal, writes, "I am at Shanta Bhawan Hospital just finishing my second term and expect to be home for furlough by January '68. We have a nursing school in connection with this hospital and I am the director of the school. We began the school in 1959 and have graduated 24 young women since then. The school is accredited by the Nepal Nursing Council. The course is 3-1/2 years, after which the girls are not only registered nurses but also midwives. I attend the Protestant worship service group at U.S. AID headquarters, and sing in the choir. For the students we have Bible study every Wednesday evening. We have no church services here at the hospital, but there are four worship groups in different parts of the city. I work under the United Mission to Nepal, which comprises 15 churches and missionary societies and as many nations."

Obstetrician-Gynecologist at Elkhart

Dr. Virgil R. Graber, of Goshen, Ind., delivers babies and performs pelvic surgery at Elkhart and Goshen general hospitals. He's one of a group of five obstetricians and gynecologists, with offices in Elkhart. He received the M.D. from the U. of Iowa in '49 and completed a four-year OB and Gyn residency at Akron City Hospital in '56. He and wife Evelyn (Scarff) '61, are members at Prairie Street church where he is treasurer and she is superintendent of the primary department. Mrs. Graber also teaches school at Concord Twp. School. Four children: Don is a junior at GC this year and is in pre-med; Tom is a freshman at GC. Bob is a junior at Bethany Christian High School and Joan, the youngest, will be a freshman at Bethany next year.... Mrs. Lawrence (Annabelle Troyer) Greaser, of Aibonito, P.R., left GC in '41 for the three-year nursing program at La Junta, and earned her degree from GC in '45. A housewife, she writes, "My nursing knowledge is utilized in typing weekly reports at the Mennonite Hospital at Aibonito." She's a Sunday-school teacher, active in W.M.S.A., and vice-president of the nurses' assn. Husband is hospital administrator; five children.

Mrs. Viola (Eby) Gross, of Kalamazoo, Mich., received the M.A. from Western Michigan U. in '58 and a second M.A. from Western Michigan U. in '64. She has been at Portage Central High School for 10 years, and she's teaching world history and government; active in Zion Lutheran Church, where she has taught Saturday school (catechism) classes for seven years. Four children; two oldest sons are married; wife of the younger is making her home with her until husband is out of the Navy.... Mrs. Robert W. (Emma Blosser) Hartzler, of Goshen, Ind., writes, "Education—Polio, Class of '52! ... Employment—Reading, writing, and contesting." Husband '41 is administrator of Oaklawn Psychiatric Center. Three sons; Greg '66 is in law school; Geoff is a junior at GC; Kim is eighth grader.

Her Book Is In Sixth Rewrite

Mrs. Isaac W. (Laura Blosser) Helfrick, of Sarasota, Fla., writes, "Our two eldest daughters are preparing for service as teacher and medical technician. The family is almost a full-time job (eight children) but for a bit of extra income and the pleasant social contacts I sell Tupperware at home parties. In other corners of time I work at my book for children (studied two years of creative writing in Sarasota schools without credit, but to my great enrichment) that is in the sixth rewrite and may some day appear in print. We love the relaxed Florida way of life which we have enjoyed for nearly eight years." Husband, the Rev. Helfrick, is diesel mechanic. Mrs. Helfrick teaches a teen's Sunday-school class and is leader of 4-H club.... Mrs. Ivan H. (Elizabeth Buckwalter) Hess, of Davenport, Iowa, writes, "I attended summer school several years at Millersville State College and at State U. of Iowa and received my certification for teaching special education—the educable mentally handicapped. Presently I am teaching in the Bettendorf system." Active at Davenport Mennonite church. Husband is minister and painter; two daughters—one in high school and one in college.

Warren Holderman, of Wakarusa, Ind., is an insurance agent and is a member of the official board and finance committee of Wakarusa Methodist Church. Married; three children.... Dr. Clarence B. Hostetler, of Des Plaines, Ill., received the D.V.M. from Kansas State U. in '43. He is executive secretary of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical Assn., and is on the advisory committee for education in the health fields for the Illinois Board of Higher Education. Additional study at U. of Iowa in '42.... Harold S. King, of Decatur, Ga., received the B.S. in Engineering from U. of Michigan in '43, now is district sales manager for the Southeast for Robertshaw Controls Co. He is past chairman of the board of deacons and presently ruling elder of Clairmont Presbyterian Church. He writes, "I helped to form this church about 12 years ago with 50 other persons meeting in a schoolhouse. Now we have more than 1700 members and are adding about five a week." Married to Avis (Hostetler) '44, homemaker; five children, one at GC.

Mrs. C. Norman (Ruth Smith) Kraus, of Serampore, West Bengal, India, writes, "Norman '46 and I and our five children—all of high school and college age—have been spending the past school year in India. Norman, on sabbatical leave from GC after 11 years of teaching in the department of religion and philosphy of which he is now chairman, has been visiting professor at Serampore Theological College, near Calcutta. Serampore is the oldest college in Asia, having been started by Missionary William Carey in 1818. Beside Norman's teaching duties here we have been traveling in India and on our return trip next summer will complete the circle around the world. I have been mostly homemaker and mother with the exception of the three years I worked as bookkeeper in a large public health department at Durham, N. C., while Norman worked for his Ph.D. at Duke U. and the past five years when I was part-time secretary in the registrar's office at GC. Daughters JoAnne and Yvonne will be a junior and senior, respectively, at GC next year."... Mrs. Robert C. (Freda Maust) LaMar, of Snow Hill, Md., is homemaker, mother of five, active in Methodist Women's Society and Republican Women's Club, and is

Around the Campus

Vietnam Is Focus of All-School Study Day; College Preview, Music Week, Summer School Set

A U.S. senator and one of the nation's few specialists in Far Eastern affairs discussed American policy in Vietnam at a special all-school study day, April 21, Sen. George S. McGovern (Dem.-S.D.) spoke on "Criticism of Current Vietnam Policy" and Dr. Wesley R. Fishel, professor of political science at Michigan State U. and a former U.S. government researcher and statesman to Japan, Korea, and Vietnam, spoke on "Defense of Current Vietnam Policy." Also speaking were GC's Dr. John H. Yoder, "A Christian Critique," and Dr. Atlee Beechy, "Historical Review of Vietnam." The purpose of the study day, the first at GC, was to bring about through scholarly analysis, an informed campus community on a matter of international significance.

Two events of unusual significance are planned for high school students on GC's campus this summer. College Preview, set for June 24 to July 1, is open to high school juniors (seniors-to-be) and includes six workshops as well as activities for parents and a number of worship, recreation, and social activities. Summer Music Week, set for June 25 to July 1 (note that it starts one day later than Preview), is open to high school sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Rehearsals by a mass choir, orchestra, and chamber music groups, and classes in music theory and history of music dot the schedule. Applications for both events are being received daily, according to John M. Zook, associate director of admissions. If your son or daughter or someone you know would like to take part, urge him to write now—by no means later than June 5. Cost of each week is a mere $25, and includes tuition, room, and board.

The Office of the President has announced a number of new appointments to the faculty for next year. Among them are Roy Anker and Ervin Beck '59, to the department of English; John Allen Beachy '63, mathematics; Dr. Donald Clemens '61, chemistry; Duane Kauffmann '66, psychology; and Dr. Calvin Redekop '49, sociology. Returning to the campus after year-long leaves and sabbaticals will be Dr. C. Franklin Bishop '40, biology; Dr. Mary E. Bender '50, French and German; Dr. C. Norman Kraus '46, religion; Prof. Perry J. Miller '32, education; Dr. John S. Oyer '51, history; Dr. Roy Umble '35, speech; and Prof. J. Richard Burkholder '52, religion. On sabbatical next year will be Dr. Lester Glick '49, of the department of social welfare.

Fifty pastors from Mennonite congregations took part in a four-day workshop on hermeneutics at the Biblical Seminary March 27-30. (Hermeneutics is the theological discipline which seeks to define the laws of biblical interpretation; the hermeneutic problem is of fundamental importance in seeking understanding and unity of conviction on the subject at hand.) The workshop, sponsored by the Seminary's Alumni Association, came a year after a series of three regional meetings on hermeneutics were held in Kansas, Indiana, and Pennsylvania in the spring of 1966, in preparation for the larger gathering in Goshen this spring.

Forty-five courses will be offered during GC's three-week summer terms, the first of which will begin on June 6. New and former students wishing to take advantage of acceleration in college and the flexibility that comes with studying one course intensively for three weeks should waste no time in applying for admission, owing to the few days from now until the beginning of the summer terms. A special feature of summer school is the offering of 11 courses for college freshmen who wish to accelerate or experience college before enrolling in a full-length semester. For more information, write to Admissions Counselor, Goshen College, Goshen, Ind. 46526.

Larry R. Yoder, national chairman for the 1967 Alumni Fund, reports that barring major unforeseen circumstances, the $100,000 goal toward unrestricted funds for operations at GC will be met by June 30. To meet the second part of this year's goal—$33,000 toward endowment, for which the total goal is $100,000 by '69—will require more effort. If you happen to be among those who have not yet sent their gifts, it is not too late; June 30 is the deadline. Be counted among the alumni, of whom there are presently more than 2500, who enthusiastically support GC through the alumni fund.

Spring: CBS Shoots TV Film and 170 Students Give Blood

UNDER COMMUNITY GOVERNMENT auspices, GC's blood donor day yielded 177 pints—52 more than the quota. Except for a few faculty, staff, and walk-ins, all donors were students. The blood is to be used at local co-operating hospitals.

FORTY-SIX ALUMNI met Apr. 1 in Springfield, Ohio (above); Dr. J. N. Roth spoke. New president is Joe Horner '55. Elsewhere, on Apr. 28, 43 met in Archbold; Dr. R. A. Ebersole '48 is new president. On Apr. 29, 140 met in Lancaster; William Swartzendruber '50 is new president. Dr. Atlee Beechy spoke at both.

CBS-TV shot footage on campus April 19-21 for a "Lamp Unto My Feet" documentary on the "peaceful revolution that is going on among the Mennonites," according to Producer Ted Holmes. The film, to be aired late summer or early fall, includes shots from many locales.

COMMENCEMENT AND ALUMNI WEEKEND:

Reunions, Alumni College, and 253 seniors
to be graduated.

JUNE 3-5, 1967

DALE STOLL '60 was elected president of the Cleveland, Ohio, alumni club March 10; 40 persons attended and heard Dr. Atlee Beechy tell of his experiences as field coordinator for Vietnam Christian Service. In other news, on May 13 alumni met in Albany, Ore. (John H. Liechty, speaker), Chicago (Dr. Beechy, speaker), and Holmes County, Ohio (Dr. Roman Gingerich, speaker).

TWO SOPHS, Michael Snyder, of Canby, Ore. (nailing) and Douglas Gingerich, of Hubbard, Ore., recently re-roofed voluntarily the G. M. Bryant home, of Goshen. Mr. Bryant is ill with emphysema; Mrs. Bryant has a heart ailment.

BRICK and block is done on the first floor of the Harold and Wilma Good Library. Work on stairwells, perimeter walls, temperature control, and plumbing is on schedule.

LETTERMEN of GC's tracksters, coached by J. Ingold, are R. Miller, L. Smith, R. Smith, and N. Glick. In one meet the team placed fourth among 7, and second among three in two.

den mother for Cub Scouts. She writes that they have an international exchange student living with them this year through the auspices of the American Field Service. Husband '41 is physician.

Shadowgraph Department Employee

Mrs. Gerald (Rozella M. King) Layton, of Roann, Ind., has worked for Controls Company of America, in North Manchester, for the last 7-1/2 years in the shadowgraph department. She and Gerald attend and are members of the First Brethren Church in Roann. She writes, "We have two grown children—Ronald, in Ohio, and Nancy, in St. Louis, Mo. We have one grandson." . . . Ernest W. Lehman, of Goshen, Ind., is presently temporarily employed in factory work at Goshen Rubber Co., after having served 20 years with Mennonite Central Committee. He's a Sunday-school teacher, takes part occasionally in quartet or other special music at church services, and is a member of Sunday evening meeting planning committee. Wife is Mary (Shank) '43, homemaker; two children.

Mrs. Kenneth M. (Genevieve Warner) Lehman, of Topeka, Ind., writes, "Twenty-five years is a long time to report in a few lines. Kenneth and I were married in April '43. Following his graduation from Indiana U School of Medicine and internship at Muncie, Ind., he served two years in the Air Force. In '48 he set up practice in Topeka, Lagrange County, and is kept busier than he would like to be. Any M.D.'s looking for a place where they are needed? We have four daughters: Anne '65 was graduated from GC and is married to Dan Lind '65; Becky is a student at Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, South Bend; Katie is a freshman at GC, and Lucy is a junior in high school. We are active in the Topeka Methodist Church. Since '50 I have directed a girls' choir and for several years I've been working in church music on the conference level. Since September '63 I have been teaching Latin for two periods a day. Kenny has maintained his interest in scouting and in '61 received the Silver Beaver, the highest award. In September and October '66 he was in South Vietnam serving in a civilian hospital under Volunteer Physicians for Vietnam." . . . Leonard Lichti, of Hesston, Kan., has been on the faculty of Hesston College since '51; he is presently registrar and instructor in mathematics. He received the M.A. at U. of Nebraska in '50, attended National Science Foundation institutes at the U. of Kansas in the summers of '59, '60, and '61, and NSF institutes at Kansas State Teachers College the summers of '62, '63, and '66, whence he was graduated with the M.S. in mathematics. He is a member of the Hesston City Council and of the board of elders of Hesston Mennonite Church. Married; seven children.

GC's Director of Alumni Relations

John H. Liechty, director of alumni relations at GC since '64, spent the years '42-'46 in CPS, farmed near Smithville, Ohio, '46-'56, sold fertilizer for Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. '56-'62, except for a 12-month period, '58-'59, when he filled an assignment for Mennonite Church Buildings. From '62 until he joined GC he again farmed. He is a former member of the male quartet of the Calvary Hour broadcast and he was formerly church chorister of the Oak Grove congregation. Mrs. Liechty is the former Ruth Evelyn Yoder '44; they have three children— Bonnie (Mrs. Stanley B.) King '65; John Allen '68, at GC; and Dan, who will be a freshman at GC next year. . . . The Rev. Merle R. Meeden has been pastor of the First Baptist Church at Saline, Mich., since June '66. Previous to that he was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Howell for 17 years which in '65 was awarded "Church of the Year" by the Michigan Baptist Convention for its outstanding ministry. Beside being a GC grad, he is also a graduate of Moody Bible Institute and Northern Theological Seminary; he has done graduate work at U. of Michigan. He's a member of Rotary, Community Chest, Michigan Children's Aid Society Board, and church extension committee of Michigan Baptist Convention, and a trustee of Northern Baptist Theological Seminary and of Judson College. Wife is circulation librarian at Eastern Michigan U.; three children.

Mrs. John P. (Nettie Glick) Miller, of Goshen, Ind., a retired teacher, writes, "It seems most unrealistic to belong to the class of '42, partly because 14 years had elapsed between matriculation and graduation. That year commencement time conflicted with school duties, and the hour of graduation found me picking strawberries on the Glick ranch, though I recall gazing longingly toward Indiana at the time. Teaching positions led hither and yon, the prize assignment being a three-year stint at A.C.S. in Beirut, Lebanon, '45-'48. The "Mrs." degree was next added, and teaching continued in North Canton, Ohio, until retirement in '62. Courses in remedial reading at Kent State U. followed the next year, but since moving to Goshen in '64, I find days too short for further teaching and full-time home duties. We now take time to find a warmer winter climate, but missed badly this year by staying in Goshen instead of going to California as we had done last year." The Millers attend College church and make their home available to Oaklawn Psychiatric Center patients. Husband is retired nurseryman. . . . Samuel J. Miller, of Baroda, Mich., is an engineer in advance development for Whirlpool Corporation, at St. Joseph, Mich. He's a Sunday-school teacher and member of board of deacons at Harbert Community Church. He recently resigned as chairman of Lake Twp. zoning board after four years of service. Wife is cosmetologist; four children—one is at GC.

Dorsa J. Mishler, of Elkhart, Ind., a former missionary to Ethiopia under the Mennonite Church, is personnel director at Mennonite Board of Missions. He received the M.S. in counseling and guidance at Indiana U. in '60. Among his church duties is teaching a college-age Sunday-school class; he recently completed 12 years of service as elder at Prairie Street Mennonite Church. Wife is adjunctive therapist at Oaklawn Psychiatric Center; four children. . . . Harvey D. Mumaw, of Wooster, Ohio, is a farmer and truck driver for road builder. He's a member of the church council, chairman of relief committee, and assistant Sunday-school teacher at Wooster Mennonite Church. Wife is bookkeeper; two children.

Mrs. Wilbur (Grace Kauffman) Nachtigall, of Iowa City, Iowa, writes, "My most important job at present is to give the needed support and encouragement to my husband while he is writing his Ph.D. thesis in Romance languages. His field is Spanish." She's also in charge of training nurse aides and orderlies in the inservice education department of nursing service at University Hospital. She's a member of the Christian Nurses' Assn. Beginning April 30 she accompanies her husband to Des Moines each Sunday where he began serving as pastor. Husband attended GC's seminary; he's a minister and teacher. Four children. . . . Mrs. Arthur (Louella K. Schrock) Noe, of Eureka, Ill., is homemaker, nursery class Sunday-school teacher at Metamora Mennonite Church, and den mother to five active scouts. She writes, "Art, who owns Apache Truck Lines, Inc., and I have four boys. Two are at GC —Dennis is a senior and Tom is a freshman."

Mrs. Weldon O. (Marion Grace Eigsti) Nunemaker, of Dixon, Ill., has taken additional work at Colorado State College and at U. of Colorado. Now she's homemaker and a farmer's wife; she taught in the primary department for a number of years and just finished a term as

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Good Help Lay Library Cornerstone

More than 300 alumni, students, faculty, and representatives from local business and industry, the Church, Board of Overseers, and Board of Education were on hand June 3 to see Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good, donors of the library, help lay its cornerstone.

True to tradition, a number of documents and publications were placed in a copper box, which in turn was placed immediately behind the cornerstone.

Among those items in the box were The New Testament in Today's English Version, a journal of science showing man's achievements in the space age, a biographical sketch of the donors, copies of newspapers and periodicals announcing the gift, and an outline of the College's new educational program to begin in September, 1968.

Ground for the library was broken in the summer of 1966. Requiring 18 months for construction, the library is to be ready for occupancy this fall.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD C. GOOD, donors of the library, took part in the cornerstone laying, June 3.

PRES. MININGER'S short address at the ceremony centered in the symbolism of cornerstone laying.

New Academic Program to Begin in Fall 1968

Flexible New Curriculum Includes Trimester Plan, New Course Concept, Study and Service Abroad

A new educational program designed to help the student understand society better and serve God and man more effectively will begin at Goshen College one year from now—in the Fall of 1968.

Combining a trimester calendar, a new concept of course study, and a trimester of study and service abroad, the new program is the result of two years of work by the Committee on the Future of the College. The committee is composed of 11 faculty members and is headed by Goshen's President Paul E. Mininger.

"We announce the Goshen Plan with hope and enthusiasm," Dr. Mininger said. "Goshen has always believed that Christian higher education must anticipate our changing world; to inform society it must keep pace with it. We feel the new program takes another long step in this direction. It permits the student to tailor his course of study to his individual needs. It offers him specialized attention and seeks to help him develop his individual talents to the full. The new program provides the student not only the best in academic offerings, but also meaningful personal experiences and direct encounters with the society in which he lives and with another culture he would not otherwise be exposed to."

While aggressively forward-looking, the new Goshen Plan, said Dr. Mininger, "is, in a real sense, a strong reaffirmation of our traditional beliefs—that each of us is an individual and a child of God; that Christian higher education has purpose, and that purpose is to serve God and man."

Advantages of Goshen's Trimester Calendar

The traditional nine-month school year is divided into two semesters. The trimester divides an 11-month academic year into thirds. The new Goshen calendar, shown as a chart on Page 2, sets up three trimesters, each 14 weeks long. Completion of nine trimesters is required for graduation.

Distinguishing features of the new Goshen trimester calendar avoids the many objections that have arisen in the trimester calendar of other colleges and universities which have merely compressed a semester into a trimester. The typical Goshen student will attend about the same number of weeks each year under the trimester calendar as under the semester.

The Fall trimester will begin in mid-September and end shortly before Christmas. It will be followed by 2½ weeks of vacation. Since the trimester will have been completed, there will be no homework, no assignments or papers to write. In short, it offers the student a genuine change of pace and enables him to find temporary employment, if he wants to, during the holidays.

By contrast, a student enrolled in the traditional two-semester system still faces the "lame-duck" end of the first semester when he returns to school after New Year's. During the holidays, he has assignments and final exams hanging over him. The faculty also benefits by completing the trimester before Christmas vacation.

The Winter trimester begins in early January and ends in early April, followed by

Dr. G. R. Miller Retires After Teaching 42 Years

Dr. Glen R. Miller, professor of chemistry, retired this summer from GC's faculty after 42 years of service, 15 of them as head of the natural sciences division.

At a banquet held in his honor last spring, Prof. Miller was presented two cash gifts and a book containing 61 letters of appreciation written to him by medical doctors, dentists, research chemists, and other scientists; all were former chemistry majors under his supervision.

Orrin Smucker, chairman of the Board of Overseers and one of the speakers at the banquet said, "On behalf of the Board and the Mennonite Church, I want to express deep appreciation and gratitude to Dr. Miller for his long and generous period of teaching service at Goshen College."

Dr. Miller, who had originally intended to become a physician, upon graduation from Hesston College, was invited to teach at, and help reorganize, the college in Goshen.

Challenged by the offer, he joined GC in 1925 after receiving the M.A. in chemistry at the University of Iowa, and began to teach all the courses in chemistry and physics then offered. In 1930 he received the Ph.D. in chemistry from the same university.

As the College has grown, so has the division of the natural sciences, which, today, includes an expanded chemistry department, built under Prof. Miller's direction.

In research Prof. Miller has worked at finding ways to synthesize new organic compounds, with attention to compounds with possible anti-cancer effects. Tests have shown some to be successful in slowing cancer's spread.

Among his other projects are examining, with carbon 14 dating, the marl deposits in glacial lakes, and researching the cause of color in minerals. He has also directed studies to determine how the College's science division can guide students into useful work in young, developing nations and how it can help teachers aid those same nations through research or special terms of service.

Off campus, Prof. Miller was director of MCC's aid program in England 1944-45; in 1962-63 he was on a special assignment in Nigeria and Ghana for Mennonite Board of Missions.

On his retirement plans, Prof. Miller remains largely noncommital. They will probably include continued work on some of his research projects.

Beck

Clemens

Mrs. Derstine

Miss Gingerich

Glick

Kauffmann

Pres. Mininger has announced the appointment of 16 new persons to the faculty; four others have accepted major changes in their assignments at the College.

Mr. Roy Anker, a 1966 Hope College graduate and a candidate for the M.A. at the University of Illinois, will be instructor in English.

Mr. John Beachy, a 1963 GC graduate and a candidate for the Ph.D. at Indiana University, will be assistant professor of mathematics.

Mr. Ervin Beck, a 1959 GC graduate, will be instructor in English. He has taught English at the American Community School in Iran for three years.

Miss Lois Gingerich, a 1968 candidate for the bachelor's degree at GC, will be head resident of Coffman Hall.

Dr. Donald Clemens, a 1961 GC graduate, and presently a research chemist for DuPont, will be assistant professor of chemistry. In 1966 he received the Ph.D. at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Eleanor Derstine, a 1962 GC graduate, will be instructor in nursing. Her professional practice has included a term of service in Haiti.

Mr. Ervie Glick, a 1965 GC graduate, will be admissions counselor. He has taught high school in Northern Indiana and taken graduate work in Germany.

Mr. Duane Kauffmann, a 1966 GC graduate, will be instructor in psychology. Last year he was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow at the University of Illinois.

Miss Eleanor Loewen, a 1967 GC graduate, will be head resident of Westlawn.

Miss Marilyn Musser, a 1966 graduate of Malone College, will be head resident of Miller and Kratz halls. She has been a graduate counselor at Kent State University.

Miss Lou Ann Overfelt, R.N., will be college nurse. She is presently a head nurse at West Suburban Hospital, of Oak Park, Ill.

Dr. Calvin Redekop, a 1946 GC graduate, will be professor of sociology. Presently he is teaching at Earlham College. He received the Ph.D. at the University of Chicago in 1957.

Mr. Daniel Schrock, a 1964 GC graduate, has received the master's in social work degree from the University of Illinois, and will be co-ordinator of counseling services.

Miss M. Marie Smith, who has been granted the M.S. degree from the University of Oregon, will be assistant professor of nursing.

Mr. Russell Smucker, a 1965 GC graduate, will be instructor in mathematics. He is completing work for the master's degree at Kent State University.

Miss Mary E. Yoder, who is nearing completion of her degree program at GC, will be head resident of Kulp Hall.

Those who have accepted changes in assignment are:

Dr. Atlee Beechy, who has been chairman of the division of teacher education and co-ordinator of counseling services, will direct the Office of Experimentation in Christian Higher Education. Funds for setting up this office have been provided by Lilly Endowment, Inc. The office will propose experimental programs to assist in developing Christian faith and strengthening Christian character in college students.

Mr. Edward B. Stoltzfus, who has been assistant professor of Bible, will be co-ordinator of church and seminary relations for GC's Biblical Seminary. He will work with congregations in the common task of developing processes for discerning gifts for church leadership and life, identifying candidates for the ministries of the church, and providing counsel to those persons.

Mr. William F. Miller, who has been registrar for the past four years, will be assistant professor of physical science. He is a 1955 GC graduate and received the M.A. from Ohio State University in 1962.

Mr. John D. Nyce, who has been assistant professor of mathematics, has accepted the post of registrar. He was graduated from Goshen College in 1959 with the B.A. and from the University of Detroit in 1966 with the M.A.T.

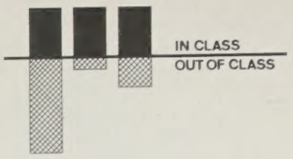
Traditional Course Concept



New Course Concept

New Concept of Courses

A second major aspect of the Goshen Plan is the new concept of courses. Its purpose is to permit both student and teacher to control better the time to be spent on each course. The concept was explained in this way by Dr. Henry D. Weaver Jr., executive secretary of the Committee on the Future of the College:

"Have you ever had a teacher who demanded twice as much time for his course as other teachers did for theirs—though all carried equivalent credit?

"In the Goshen Plan," Dr. Weaver said, "each course will represent a definite proportion of the student's total work load. If the course requires considerable outside work, then the teacher will need to reduce the number of lectures and labs. If many lectures and labs are needed, the teacher will need to cut down on outside reading and term papers. In this way, two courses giving the same amount of credit will receive the attention they are due without either monopolizing the student's time at the expense of the other."

The Goshen Plan limits the number of courses for a student in one trimester. The normal load will be four courses; at no time will a student be permitted to take more than five. The maximum load for one term will be 14 trimester hours.

Sophomores, juniors, and seniors will have the option to earn additional credit through depth study by prearrangement with the professor. A "depth credit" will be a one-trimester-hour addition to a course in which a student enrolls. Its advantages include (1) the motivated student can pursue his study to greater depth, (2) he will have a true opportunity for independent study and research, and (3) extra credit can be earned where needed toward graduation.

Study-Service Trimester Abroad

The Mennonite Church and its institutions have long emphasized the social and educational importance of service to needy persons wherever they are found in the world. Voluntary Service and Pax programs of the church, and their forerunners, CPS and relief and aid missions, are, and have been, examples of this principle in action. Goshen has adapted this principle to its educational program and is placing it in its curriculum as the trimester of study and service abroad.

The Goshen student will be able to take his study-service trimester at any point after the first two freshman trimesters and before the final two senior trimesters—that is, during the sophomore and junior years. Dr. Weaver, who is now serving as director of study-service programs, explained that during the 14-week period of study and service the student will:

- Live in the home of a family in the host country.
- Study art, government, religion, music, geography, anthropology, social customs, and biological specimens of the country through field trips, seminars, reading and lectures.
- Work actively and productively to help fill a pressing social, physical, or spiritual need.
- Serve as a vital part of a team of 15 to 20 students, led by a couple on the full-time faculty of Goshen College.

To acquire experience at fitting this study-service term into the course of study, four pilot teams were abroad in June, July, and August. Two were in Haiti and one each was in Barbados and Colombia. After a brief orientation session in New York City, the teams flew to their assigned sites.

Dr. Weaver said that teams in Haiti performed such services as teaching art, music, and English to Haitian children; demonstrating modern agricultural techniques; providing para-medical services at a hospital operated by Mennonite Central Committee; and helping to administer and operate poultry and canning co-operatives and a nutritional center for maternal-child care.

In Barbados, students worked beside Barbadians at a daily newspaper, the government probation office, mental hospital, social welfare department, public library, family planning association, tourist board, and agricultural research unit.

"Other types of help and service will be provided by Goshen students in other places as the study-service trimester swings into full operation," Dr. Weaver said. "We believe that the great majority of our students will be eager to take advantage of this opportunity to have direct, personal experiences in another culture and to minister to the hurts and needs of those in developing nations. Should a student elect not to take the trimester abroad, however, he may make it up by equivalent international studies on the campus."

Flexibility with Purpose

Because there are so many possible combinations for the completion of the required nine trimesters, the student can arrange his college program to fit his particular needs, resources, and interests. He can take vacations in Fall, Winter, or Spring. He can take another genuine vacation. Those whose schedules do not require attending the ensuing Spring trimester can begin summer employment immediately and get the jump on the competition for good summer jobs. Under the semester system, the second semester ends in late May or early June, just as millions of high school and college students leave school to compete for summer jobs.

COMPARISON OF TRIMESTER AND SEMESTER CALENDARS

The Spring trimester begins in mid-April and ends in late July. This trimester is divided into four 3½-week terms. This division creates additional flexibility in arranging schedules, and it offers the student a variety of meaningful activities through which he can earn credit toward graduation.

Range of Activities

Dr. Carl Kreider, dean of the College, pointed out that the 3½-week sessions will permit many experiences that cannot be accommodated in the regular trimester or semester. He cited a number of activities that were tested and completed successfully this summer or during the past year—including a marine biology seminar at Pigeon Key, Florida; an ornithology seminar in the Florida Everglades; and a field course in mineralogy that included stops in the Colorado Rockies and in mining areas in five other states.

He said that when the Goshen Plan becomes effective in 1968, additional 3½-week courses will include music and drama classes in New York City, government classes in Washington, D.C.; and sociology courses in urban ghettos.

On campus, meantime, students can use 3½-week sessions to go further with regular studies.

Time Table for Completing Graduation Requirements

The number of choices open to the student for completing graduation requirements are, for practical purposes, almost without limit. For example, if a student chooses to attend one 3½-week term of the Spring trimester each year, he can accumulate in four years the equivalent of one full trimester to add to the eight he would get in Fall and Winter trimesters.

For a second example, if the student chooses to attend college for nine straight trimesters—Fall, Winter, and Spring — he would complete graduation requirements in three years in those fields in which a student can now complete his program of studies in eight semesters. While there will be no pressure on students to accelerate in that manner, Dean Kreider said, "there will probably be an increasing number who will wish to complete college in three years. This may be especially true of the student who anticipates graduate study before entering his profession."

Dean Kreider said that the typical student may take his nine trimesters in any order which suits his needs. A faculty advisor will offer guidance and counseling from the very beginning to help each student arrange his program to his best advantage.

Sherers Are Sonata Recitalists at EMC

The Sherers at GC

The Eastern Mennonite College music-lecture series opened its 1967-68 season on October 13 with a concert by violinist Lon Sherer, professor of music at Goshen College. Mr. Sherer was accompanied by his wife Kathryn, pianist.

Playing music from Mozart to Ives, the Sherers, said Ira T. Zook '61, EMC's assistant professor of music, "exhibited perfection, feeling, and humor."

He said, "The high point of the concert was Brahms' 'Sonata No. 3 in D Minor.' All the warmth and power of the music came through in the Sherers' very sensitive and perceptive performance.

"Mr. Sherer's virtuosity was well displayed in the performance of Ravel's technically demanding 'Tzigane.' The gypsy character of the piece demands the utmost in violin technique."

Enjoyed Ives Sonata

The good-sized EMC audience reacted enthusiastically to the dissonant character of the Charles Ives Sonata No. 4, "Children's Day at the Camp Meeting," according to Prof. Zook.

Mr. Sherer's introduction to the piece, which pointed out the extensive thematic use of a well-known children's chorus, was a valuable help in listening.

Prof. Zook said, "We at EMC hope to see more of this type of musical exchange between Mennonite colleges in the future."

New Violin

The occasion was the first time Mr. Sherer had performed on his newly acquired Vuillaume violin, made by the greatest violin maker of the 19th century, in a large concert hall.

The sonata recitalists have been performing periodically throughout the Midwest at colleges and universities. In solo appearances Mr. Sherer has performed with India's Calcutta Symphony, and with the orchestras of the University of Michigan, Battle Creek, and Elkhart. Mrs. Sherer has performed with the University of Michigan and the Interlochen Symphony orchestras.

Buschert Known for Research on Radiation Effects

Dr. Buschert, physicist

Dr. Robert C. Buschert, chairman of GC's physics department, reported at an international conference this fall on a technique that yields measurements 100 times more accurately than any previous in detecting defects caused by radiation in silicon.

His research will help in understanding why solid state devices such as transistors and solar cells in communication satellites and space vehicles sometimes fail when traveling through the Van Allen radiation belts around the earth.

Dr. Buschert was one of 75 physicists specializing in semiconductors to receive invitations to the international conference, held at Santa Fe, N. Mex. Contingents of scientists from England, France, Japan, and Canada were also present; no Russians were there, but a Russian paper was read.

Great Interest

At the close of World War II, a great interest centered in the effects in materials from high-energy radiation, owing to nuclear explosions and nuclear reactors. How to study the defects and changes in the materials from radiation was the problem.

It turned out that the semi-conductors silicon and germanium were the most sensitive and interesting materials to investigate, because they are almost perfect crystals as far as purity and structure are concerned.

When subjected to radiation, the electrical, mechanical, and optical properties of the crystals may change drastically, and defects known to the physicist as vacancies and interstitials—and complexes of these with impurity atoms—occur.

Needed for Study

One of the basic pieces of information needed for the study of the defects was what was the change in volume within the crystals due to radiation.

Previous X-ray diffraction methods could measure the average distance between atoms to two parts in one million, but this was not of sufficient sensitivity to detect the simplest kind of defects. Prof. Buschert developed a technique that increases this sensitivity to two parts in 100 million.

Young Singers from GC Give Superb Lieder Recital

Singers Mr. and Mrs. Falk; Theo Lindenbaum at piano

A Review by Jeffrey Anderson
Winnipeg Free Press, Sept. 25, 1967

The last music I heard during a working holiday in England recently was a superb song recital given by the German baritone Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau. It included a glowing account of Schumann's Dichterlieder (Poet's Love). On returning home the first music I encountered was that same song cycle, but this time sung by a former resident of this city, David Falk.

Both performances were uncannily similar in several ways and, more to the point, both gave intense pleasure. Mr. Falk's presentation of the Dichterlieder cycle had far more in common with the slightly more polished performance of Fischer-Dieskau, than not. Like him, Mr. Falk has a lyric baritone which he uses with great insight and imagination; especially noteworthy was his subtle use of his middle register.

The remarkable and revelatory recital was given jointly by Baritone David Falk, assistant professor of music at Goshen College, and his wife, Mezzo soprano Viola Horch-Falk. It was a most moving experience due in the main to the extraordinarily passionate yet controlled singing of Hugo Wolf's Spanisches Liederbuch (Book of Spanish Lyrics) by Viola Horch-Falk.

Her voice is a rich and pliant one and she was able to bring a burning intensity to much of her performance.

Both young singers have a becoming stage presence, excellent diction and both are innately and recognizably musical. Both have flexibility of vocal inflection, but take their performance seriously so that not much is left to chance.

Art Prof Abner Hershberger Is Commissioned

Prof. Abner Hershberger, of GC's art department, recently completed "Vertical Garden," his first commissioned work of art.

The welded steel sculpture was commissioned by Goshen General Hospital and hangs in its main lobby.

One-Man Show

In other activity, Prof. Hershberger exhibited his paintings and sculpture at Marion College this fall in a one-man show. Now in his 11th year in taking part in exhibitions or providing one-man shows, Mr. Hershberger has shown his completed works at Washburn University, South Bend Art Association Galleries, Art for Religion (Goshen), Elkhart Art League, Independent Artists' Exhibit (Elkhart), Bristol Opera House, and Indiana University.

Prof. Hershberger has been invited to display his works at other one-man shows this year, but the schedule was still tentative as the Newsletter went to press.

Director of Art Gallery

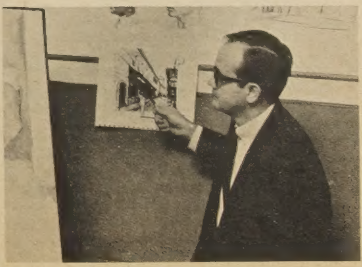
When the Harold and Wilma Good Library opens this month, GC's first art gallery also will open, and Abner Hershberger will be its director. The gallery will be on the ground floor of the library.

This fall's first exhibit, paintings by John F. Ross, chairman of the fine arts department of the Fort Wayne Public Library and lecturer in art history at GC, was displayed in the crowded Union.

Exhibits scheduled for the new gallery are Konstantin Milonadis, kinetic sculpture, Nov. 16 to Dec. 16; Justin Kronewetter, recent drawings and paintings, Jan. 1-28; Contemporary American Prints, Feb. 1-25; Harry S. Hefner, watercolors, March 3-24; student exhibit, April 1-28; Senior Retrospective Show, May 5-June 2.



Abner Hershberger in class

his study-service trimester abroad in Fall, Winter or Spring. He can use 3½-week Spring sessions to do field work in which he is deeply interested and, depending on the arrangement of combinations, amass credits leading toward graduation at an earlier time than usual. Or, he can accelerate, that is, work straight through—still taking August, Christmas, and mid-April vacations —and complete college in three years.

These are the elements of the Goshen Plan. They, and it, are designed to provide a better education for the student who will work in, and serve, a changing society. The faculty and the Board of Overseers and the Mennonite Board of Education support the Plan enthusiastically and, said Dr. Mininger, "We are confident that it is a good Plan. For it, we owe a considerable debt to the faculty members of the Committee on the Future of the College, for their energy and vision, and to our boards, for their understanding and acceptance.

"It is important to note, I believe," said Dr. Mininger, "that these changes are designed solely to allow us to do more effectively and efficiently what we have always striven to do—to develop critical and knowledgeable thinking; to lead our students to an informed commitment to Christ; and to help the student, as best we possibly can, to the total development of his talents and gifts. This, it seems to me, is the very essence of the new Goshen Plan."

Cleveland Orchestra and Jerome Hines to Perform in '67-'68 L-M Season

THE CLEVELAND ORCHESTRA, with George Szell, musical director, Louis Lane conducting, will perform at GC on April 4.

The Cleveland Orchestra and Jerome Hines, Metropolitan Opera basso, head the list of eight events in Goshen College's 62nd annual Lecture-Music series, 1967-68.

The Cleveland Orchestra will perform on April 4. In its fiftieth season, the Cleveland Orchestra is the youngest of the nation's leading symphonic ensembles. In 1957 and in 1965 it was the musical ambassador for the United States to Eastern and Western Europe, the Soviet Union, and Scandinavia.

Jerome Hines, who will perform on March 18, is the first American in four decades whose performances of leading operatic roles in the United States and abroad have won international acclaim. Mr. Hines, a serious Christian and one who earnestly seeks to accept responsibility for his fellow man, has been active in the Salvation Army and other organizations that operate missions for the unfortunate.

Recently in Tulsa, Okla., shortly after an appearance with the local symphony orchestra, he went to a mission hall filled with men seeking warmth, food, and a night's lodging. Mounting the rostrum, he sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "I'd Rather Have Jesus," after which he urged his hearers to find their way to Christ. "I'd rather have Jesus than man's applause," the six-foot-six singer told his audience.

Six Other Attractions

Six other attractions have also been set for next season.

On February 5 Leonard Rose will perform on one of the rare Amati cellos, dated 1662.

The New York Pro Musica, directed by John White, will perform on October 28. It is one of America's famous performing groups using ancient instruments. In its repertory are sacred works that were performed in the cathedrals of Chartres and Notre Dame.

On February 29 Dr. Xaver Meyer will conduct the Vienna Academy Chorus, a mixed ensemble of 24 voices all trained at the 150-year-old Vienna Academy of Music. On its sixth international tour the chorus will include in its repertory the oldest to the most modern of choral literature.

Moliere's Tartuffe will be produced on February 19 by the professional touring company of Indiana University. The 17th-century French satiric masterpiece boldly attacks religious hypocrisy. Shortly after the play was written, it was banned. After five years, the clerical Establishment reluctantly yielded to Moliere's insistence that comedy must admonish as well as amuse.

To Lecture on Africa

Two lectures, with differing viewpoints, will share the platform on November 9. Mr. Chinua Achebe, who will speak on "My Africa," is one of Africa's outstanding literary figures, a high government official, and an international broadcaster. An "insider," he will tell about the attitudes of the Africans themselves toward their problems.

Mr. George Loft, who will speak on "Africa—Conflict and Hope," is from the United States. He is a leader in aiding African education, an experienced liaison person between African leaders and colonial government officials, and a top authority on Africa for the U.S. and at the U.N. His experience enables him to discuss the complex questions of Africa's political, economic, and cultural revolutions.

Dr. I. M. Levitt, astronomer, author, and director of Philadelphia's Fels Planetarium, will lecture on "The Next Ten Years in Space" on January 8. His lecture, with original slides, will include facets of the vast U.S. space program—the goal to have a group of astronauts on the moon by 1971, the Manned Orbital Laboratory, the Mariner probes, and the Tiros satellites.

The Lecture-Music Committee operates the series for the College on a non-profit basis and uses any gain from operations to build better series for future seasons.

Kresge Awards $25,000 'Challenge'

The Kresge Foundation, of Detroit, Mich., has awarded Goshen College a $25,000 "challenge" grant.

Pres. Mininger said that the grant will be made to the College on condition that it raise $225,000 in contributed funds required to complete the construction, equipping, furnishing, and foundation landscaping of the Harold and Wilma Good Library.

Grants by the Kresge Foundation are ordinarily made on a challenge or conditional basis so as to provide incentive for enlisting the support and interest of other donors.

First Gift

Pres. Mininger said this was the first time Goshen College received a gift from the Kresge Foundation and that he was happy to have the College take part in the Kresge Foundation's program of support of higher education.

According to its most recent biennial report, the Kresge Foundation authorized 126 grants totaling over $4,100,000 to educational institutions. The Kresge Foundation has a long record of support toward projects dealing with education and religion or closely related programs.

Two Graduates Gave $1,000,000

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Good, two graduates of Goshen College, gave $1,000,000 for the library in the fall of 1965. Construction plans call for completion of the building and furnishing and equipping it this fall.

When completed, the Harold and Wilma Good Library will contain slightly more than 35,000 square feet on four floors (one floor completely underground), shelf space for 250,000 volumes, and accommodations for 600 readers.

A Special Editorial to Alumni
Living in Indiana

Testing Whom?

Roger D. Branigin, honorable governor of Indiana, has said:

> "Indiana is fortunate to have some of the finest independent colleges in the nation.
> "Some of our most talented leaders were groomed in the atmosphere of the independent schools. The young citizens of our State are our most valuable assets and educational opportunity for all of them is imperative. Support of our private colleges and universities will help assure the facilities essential to accommodate this college generation and those generations to follow."

The State of Indiana and indeed the entire nation is putting you and all taxpayers in the State of Indiana to a test. How? By allowing individual and corporate donors to higher education credit up to $50 and $500 respectively, against state income tax.

Last May, Columnist Ross Herman of The Indianapolis Star wrote,

> "The recent General Assembly made Indiana a pace-setter in higher education by adopting experimental tax-credit legislation.
> "The use of tax credits as incentives for increased private activity in fields now dominated largely by government has been debated for several years in scholarly circles and more recently in Congress with consideration of various tax-credit plans for parents who pay the cost of their children's higher education.
> "Indiana has now stepped out in front of Congress and other state legislatures as the first state to embody the tax-credit-for-education concept in law and put it to a test.
> "It is a test that will be watched closely. The Hoosier experiment was the subject of intense interest at a national conference of college trustees at Converse College, Spartanburg, S. C., in April, and received praise from one of the meeting's speakers, Sen. Peter Dominick, Colorado, sponsor of similar legislation in Congress.
> "Good results in the new state programs could put Indiana in the forefront of a national effort to secure enactment of tax-credit legislation by Congress."

Alumni and parents of students are the most likely heavy endorsers of the tax-credit-for-education kinds of legislation. These persons are also expected to respond with the most enthusiasm.

Goshen College has already answered a request from the Indiana State Legislation Committee on Finance for past records of alumni funds and corporate giving. It seems clear that the results from the enactment into law of a tax credit for gifts to higher education will be analyzed in detail.

Testing whom? Me and—yes—you if you are an Indiana gross income taxpayer.

We are on trial—

. . . To see if we move up to new levels of support for higher education.

. . . To see if we use the credit for our own personal benefits only.

. . . To see if we are moved from a non-contributor to a contributor.

. . . To see if we prefer individual choice and act responsibly.

. . . To see if we really believe that some channels of public service can be provided outside of governmental control and administration.

Testing whom? Me, an Indiana gross income taxpayer.

Many Return for Homecoming

More than 500 alumni from the Midwest and the East returned to their alma mater October 28 for the 1967 Homecoming celebration.

The morning's activities included a science seminar, home economics brunch, social science seminar, English department luncheon, division of nursing get-together, and teacher education division open house in the new library.

Afternoon events were the soccer match, with the Maple Leafs trouncing the DePauw University Tigers 3-0, and tours of the Harold and Wilma Good Library. Paintings by John F. Ross, of Fort Wayne, were on exhibit over the weekend.

A buffet supper and a concert, "Music for the Tudor Court," by the New York Pro Musica ended the day.

Admissions Counselors On Annual Tours

High school juniors and seniors in many schools have, or will soon have, a chance to talk to one of three admissions counselors from Goshen College.

Serving as counselors this year are John M. Zook, associate director of admissions, Erv Glick, and Daniel Schrock.

Beginning in early October, the three men have visited schools in Northern Indiana, Southern Michigan, Eastern Pennsylvania, Central and Northern Illinois, New York State and Northwestern Pennsylvania, Archbold, Ohio, area, and Holmes and Wayne counties, of Ohio.

The itinerary for Mr. Zook and Mr. Glick for the rest of the fall and winter is below. Mr. Schrock's detailed itinerary for additional visits to schools in Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan consists of a number of days during the same time.

GC on CBS-TV

"Mennonites, The Peaceful Revolution" included a number of scenes from Goshen College on the CBS-TV program, "Lamp Unto My Feet," broadcast last September 10.

Prof. J. Daniel Hess, of the English department, was the resource person for CBS and worked closely with their staff throughout the planning and during the filming.

Noble Kreider's Musical Legacy

A portion of the music library of the late Noble Kreider has been donated to the Goshen College music department. The gift was made in late August, 1967, and came from legatees of Mr. Kreider. It consists largely of piano music by well-known 18th and 19th century composers, and is housed in the music library in the Arts building.

Mr. Kreider taught piano at GC from 1927 to 1953. His students will remember that besides playing and teaching piano, he was also a composer. Works of his were published by the Wa-Wan Press early in this century, and later by G. Schirmer, one of the country's largest music publishers. Upon his death in 1959, copies of all his published works together with his unpublished manuscripts were accepted by the Americana Collection of the music division of the New York Public Library. At that time a complete list of all his known compositions was made by one of his students, Charles Burkhart '50.

Want a Gospel Team?

Groups of four to six students are available for speaking engagements or for music or drama presentations at churches on weekends or for Sunday worship services.

In addition to weekends scheduled when classes are in session, tours to groups of churches may be arranged for the spring recess, March 23 to April 2, 1968.

If your church would like to include in its worship and activities a Gospel team of GC students, please write to Miss Sharon Kirkton, at the College, about your plans.

Students from Pilot Teams Speak to Alumni Clubs

Stanley C. Beachy, a junior from Grantsville, Md., who took part in the Haiti study-service term last summer, spoke at the Northern Illinois and Northwestern Indiana alumni club meetings early in November.

At the Illinois meeting he was joined by Brad Boyd, a junior from Millersburg, Ohio, who was on the Barbados team.

In other news, the Oregon club met last May 13 and heard Alumni Association Secretary-treasurer John H. Liechty '42 speak on the new approaches to learning that GC will inaugurate next fall. Club officers are Floyd Lapp '61, president; Dr. Benjamin E. Kenagy '51, vice president; and Miriam (Troyer) Showalter '52, secretary-treasurer.

Library Plaza Plans Announced

DR. PAUL MININGER, president of Goshen College, has announced the plans for the building of the plaza at the new Harold and Wilma Good Library.

Estimated to cost about $75,000, the plans call for a small water fountain, a number of benches, a variety of plantings, and intersecting walkways which will connect with the Arts Building, the Church-Chapel, the Union Building, residence halls, and the Administration and Science buildings.

What once was a mere grassy plot east of the Union stretching to the railroad tracks will, by the end of the summer of 1968, be a most attractive center on campus, with the Harold and Wilma Good Library and a plaza enhancing its entrance.

Pilot Study Projects Tested By Students Last Summer

(Right) STUDENTS IN THE MARINE BIOLOGY seminar last summer were to follow a carefully set schedule of three hours in the water and three hours in the laboratory. Arriving at Pigeon Key, they soon abandoned that schedule and often worked 12 or 14 hours a day because they were so fascinated at the wonders of the sea.

A second pilot three-week seminar was a mineralogy field trip to the Colorado Rockies and five other states. Five students under the direction of Dr. Glen R. Miller studied limestone caves, fluorite mines, coal mines, barite strip mines, lead zinc mines, molybdenum mines, and gold mines.

In the new Goshen Plan, the College plans to add still other seminars, including music and drama classes to New York, government classes to Washington, and sociology trips to urban ghettos.

The intensive field trips and seminars will be part of the flexible new curriculum, which, using the trimester calendar, provides many new learning opportunities not available under the conventional two-semester system. The spring trimester of 14 weeks, divided into four 3½-week terms, is ideally suited for intensive study on or off campus for all or just part of the trimester.

A STUDY-SERVICE TEAM IN HAITI was another pilot project last summer. Nine students were led by Mr. and Mrs. Marion R. Wenger, both of whom are on GC's faculty. Like the team in Barbados, the students studied art, government, religion, economics, music, geography, anthropology, social customs, and biological specimens through field trips, seminars, readings, and lectures. Work assignments were varied.

|---|---|
| Prof. A. Frances Wenger | |
| Carolyn Derstine | Taught art and English, Holy Trinity School |
| Prof. Marion R. Wenger | |
| Judith Ann Beechy | Taught music and English to handicapped children, St. Vincent's Episcopal School |
| E. Louise Burkholder | Taught sewing classes, and assisted at cannery and nutrition center, Grande Riviere |
| Peter Enns | Clerical work at public library; helped in building the school at St. Raphael |
| Sharon K. Swartley | Helped in Salvation Army crafts center for re-training handicapped adults, and assisted in its summer camp program |
| Stanley C. Beachy | Laboratory assistant at Cap Haitien outpatient clinic |

|---|---|
| Ted Stuckey | Sports and recreation supervisor at day camp for children, Deschapelles |
| Ruth Fireoved | Directed children's activities at Deschapelles |
| David Rosenberger | Demonstrated agricultural techniques; on weekends, assisted in religious retreats. |

PAN AM
Welcomes THE BARBADOS SEMINAR

TEN GC STUDENTS led by Dr. and Mrs. Roy Umble studied—and worked—in the pilot study-service term in Barbados last summer. The experience was essential to understanding the many aspects of the study-service trimester abroad to be available to all students when the new Goshen Plan begins in September, 1968. Work assignments of the GC students were:

|---|---|
| Joan Gerig | Programming and script writing for Barbados Broadcasting System |
| Phyllis Smucker | Adoption and immigration cases for social welfare department |
| John A. Liechty | Counsellor and court officer for Probation Service |
| Bradley J. Boyd | Research on pests of sugar cane for Ministry of Agriculture |
| Jane Smucker | Teaching assignment, under Ministry of Education |
| Mrs. Roy Umble | |
| Barbara Holdread | Mental Hospital and Children's School |
| Blaine Bauman, Bluffton College student | |

|---|---|
| Carol Beechy | Copy Desk of Barbados Daily News |
| Jo Ann Heiser | Barbados Family Planning Association |
| Dr. Roy Umble | |
| Jeannie Hostetler | Barbados Tourist Board |
| Joyce Lehman | Community development assignments for social welfare department |

THIS ONE DID NOT GET AWAY. Bruce Glick, (above), with Prof. Jonathan Roth, led the pilot three-week marine biology seminar at Pigeon Key, Fla., in which 10 biology majors took part. The group also "fished" for sponges, marine worms, octopi, and other specimens.

Students, Profs, College President Talk About World's Needs and Mission of the Christian

"The Christian college must prepare the student for his part in the world community and in the world mission of the Christian church.

"The Study-Service Term Abroad is an attempt to prepare students for this role. It has been designed to expose the student to some of the needs and hurts of the modern world, particularly those in recently developing countries, including those in Central America and in the Caribbean area. The enemies confronting these nations are ignorance, disease, hunger, poverty, and un-faith — faiths different from that of the Christian.

"If a young person in the United States in the 20th century is to be exposed, he must leave his affluent, wealthy society and go to that part of the world just emerging.

"Further, he must be exposed to the work and witness of the young Christian church in that part of the world.

"On my recent trip to Jamaica, Prof. Henry Weaver Jr. and I sat in the service of a young church. It was practically full. Half of the persons were not Christian. To feel the concern of the Christians for their neighbors and the vitality of this living church which is growing and effective was an inspiring experience. I would like students to see the church in this setting and to take part in it.

"The student, faced with the needs of a developing nation, must have a chance to do something which has social meaning and consequence, not only for himself but also for the lives of other persons. I do not expect the student to reform the country suddenly, but he must be able to give himself without thinking of monetary reward and what the experience is going to give to him."

—Dr. Paul E. Mininger, president of Goshen College, speaking in a convocation address, "The Background and Thinking Behind the Study-Service Term Abroad"

"The children in Haiti eat bones with gusto. Pity? Alarm? Laugh? We knew of the absence of meat in Haiti. We also knew bones contain minerals, so if the youngsters liked them . . . fine. They were just that much better off than other children in Haiti.

"What did I learn in Haiti? I learned that when a malnourished baby looks like he's nine months old, he's really three years old . . . And, there are some things schools can't teach. What it feels like to have nine children watch you eat — waiting for the leftovers.

"Haiti cast a spell over me. I never thought much about it until I got back to this country—where persons run back after another sandwich because the first, from which one bite was consumed, is cold.

"In Haiti we lived. We lived with . . . beggars grabbing at our arms, flies crawling over rotting meat in marketplaces."

—Miss Ruthie Fireoved, GC student who took part in the summer, 1967, Study-Service Term in Haiti, writing in "Sounding Off About Haiti"

"To feed the world population in 1960 required 470 million tons of grain. To feed the projected population of 1980 will require an estimated 770 million tons of grain.

"The additional 300 million tons of grain needed by 1980 is about the current output of North America and Western Europe combined.

"It is difficult to foresee how the less-developed countries in Asia, Africa, and Latin America can increase their grain production by nearly 300 million tons within 13 years,

LORNE GROVE, at right with sun helmet, helped Indian nationals dig ponds to preserve the water supply and assisted them in other ways to combat the famine conditions, during the three years he was in Pax in India. Goshen College
BULLETIN

November, 1967 Vol. LXI. No. 8

The purpose of the "Alumni Newsletter" edition of the Goshen College Bulletin is to review and interpret representative activities of the community of faculty and students at Goshen College and the alumni of the College. It is intended for alumni, friends of the College, and parents of students.

LINES FROM LIECHTY

Wholesome alumni attachment to Goshen College is directed to the support of the institution as being essential to the well-being of mankind; it is not directed to making the College conform to this or that political view, economic philosophy, or religious practice.

consider the needs — including the hunger needs — of the world.

"Therefore, I believe the Mennonite Church is uniquely fitted for helping in the enormous task of meeting hunger throughout the world in the coming years. Added to this can be the tremendous experience of working with the Christian church of the world to penetrate a geographic district like India in a spiritual way."

—John Beachy Sr., veteran missionary to India, speaking in a convocation address, "The Church Responds to Famine"

"When I arrived at the compound Sunday evening I didn't know what I was going to be doing and nobody else seemed to know either. But as I did pretty well the rest of the summer I trusted the Lord to work things out for me. I knew He would and He surely did. . . .

"It goes back even farther than the beginning. It goes clear back to last January, when I first realized that I was supposed to go to Haiti. From the time I applied at the beginning of February, until I was accepted in the early part of April, there really wasn't much doubt in my mind about my going to Haiti; I just knew I was going. And, I knew I was going for a reason, too.

"I didn't know for sure just what the reason was—why God wanted me to go down there this summer, but I found out as I look back, I can see why it was.

"He used this experience to open my eyes to the tremendous need there is in the world. Sure, I had sat through dozens of showings of slides—returning missionaries had shown these conditions on slides—but you don't get the feel of it like that. It affects you for a couple hours maybe, but you go home and go right to sleep and it doesn't bother you at all.

"When you see something like this first hand, and it grows to be a part of you and you know the conditions personally and you know what kind of a struggle they're going through, you can't help but change. Your whole value system has to change. At least I found that mine had to.

"And through this whole experience, including the working with the missionaries there on the compound—I learned to trust God completely for everything, like they do, and the Haitians. They don't have things to trust in like we do. So they just let God take care of it. . . .

"Down there I really came to know what prayer is, and the joy that comes from answered prayer and from completely trusting God for everything. Some persons say, Yes, this is the easy way out, if something goes wrong then you can blame God for it, or, if things go pretty well, then you can take the credit for it yourself anyway. This blaming things on God is a fatalistic attitude.

"This isn't the case at all, because I see God as a personal God, intimately concerned. I completely trust Him to work things out for me."

—Stanley Beachy, a junior, in GC's premed course of studies, talking about his experiences in the Study-Service Term in Haiti last summer, in an interview with the editor.

Move to Harold and Wilma Good Library Done in Afternoon by College Family

PRES. MININGER cut the white ribbon stretched across the doors of the Harold and Wilma Good Library, and then he and more than 800 students, staff, and faculty moved some 57,000 volumes from Memorial Library and some 19,000 volumes from Mennonite Historical Library.

The move was made on November 15, after being postponed a day on account of high winds and snow and rain. Mr. and Mrs. Good, donors of the library, had motored to Goshen to take part in the move on November 14, but owing to personal schedules they were unable to stay over, or return, for the following day when the weather improved.

Students carried books for six hours, with only short breaks for snacks, from a stand set up at the rear of the building, and for early dinner. Some made 40 trips across campus during the move.

FROM THE MENNONITE HISTORICAL LIBRARY came a constant stream of persons, at right on picture. Quarters for Mennonite Historical Library are the north half of the third floor, with the John Horsch Room within the middle bay on that floor, to the west (facing camera).

WHAT APPEARED to be a 'literary' traffic jam filled the main lobby of the new library as four lines of persons moved books. An intricate traffic control system, set up and tested in advance by the librarians, enabled the move to be completed so that the library could open for business at 7 that evening.

THREE HUMAN CHAINS carried books from the curriculum and main collections of the Memorial Library.

Although the library was not completely finished, the move was made in November because it could accommodate, on moving day, 168 readers, compared to the crowded Memorial Library, with only 130 seats. Soon after December 1, additional individual carrels were installed, increasing seating to 250. Virtually all interior work was to be completed by January 15.

(Above) MISS JANE SMUCKER taught school in Barbados as part of her study-service term last summer.

A small English-speaking nation tucked away in the Caribbean Sea, Barbados achieved its independence late in 1966. Its population density is one of the world's highest, and it proudly boasts an illiteracy rate that is one of the world's lowest.

Haiti has 7,000 teachers (.16 per cent of the population) for 295,000 primary and secondary school pupils (6.7 per cent of the population); the United States provides 195,000 teachers (1 per cent of the population) for the 45,450,000 primary and secondary school pupils (23.3 per cent of the population).

Comparisons between Haiti and the United States with respect to medical personnel must be made cautiously; a recent report shows one physician for every 690 U.S. citizens, but in Haiti it's one for every 14,000.

QUOTES WITHOUT COMMENT

when they were able to increase production by only 134 million tons during the 25-year period from 1934 to 1960. Briefly stated, the less-developed regions have apparently lost the capacity to feed themselves.

"We need firm data concerning situations in various stress areas of the world. We need to know the social, economic, and political patterns which exist and how these might inhibit or enhance programs designed to ease hunger. . . .

"I do not think it is accidental, nor coincidental, that, at this crucial point in history, a number of things are happening which can have a significant influence upon the role of the Mennonite Church in world missions. . . .

"One of these is the Study-Service Term abroad which will involve a large number of our young persons in the life and experiences of those living in the less-developed countries. I see this and other factors converging to make the last 30 years of the 20th century a period when the church has a great opportunity to be the scattered church as it has never before been thought possible."

—Dr. C. F. Bishop, professor of biology at Goshen College, speaking in a convocation address, "World Hunger—Reality and Challenge."

"In some parts of Africa women are not allowed to eat eggs because it is believed that they will lay eggs instead of giving birth to babies. Children whose teeth have not erupted are forbidden to eat eggs because it might lead to stupidity.

"In South Africa young girls are not allowed to eat eggs because it would lead to excessive fondness of men. And, they cannot eat pork because that is considered blasphemy.

"Further, women are not allowed to eat a type of fish which has an elongated mouth; if they do, they will get pointed lips.

"This is nothing but sheer ignorance. Their bodies are being robbed of essential proteins and other nutrients.

"What do I offer as a solution? Education. This would help to remove all taboos and restrictions on certain foods."

—Miss Margaret Kigundu, a senior, majoring in home economics at Goshen College, speaking in a convocation address, "Ignorance and Malnutrition in Africa."

"The people of Haiti come from Africa and have carried with them many of the taboos they had in Africa and have continued to hand them down through the centuries.

"Children in Haiti suffer from malnutrition because of ignorance and lack of agricultural resources. The farms are small; the land has been subdivided so many times because of so many persons. Someone has said, 'There is no agriculture in Haiti, just horticulture.'

"The first week I was at the hospital last summer during the special seminar for nurses, a mother brought to the clinic her month-old baby, weighing less than three pounds. When the doctors questioned why the baby was so small, she said, 'It would not take breast milk so I decided it didn't want it, so I gave it a few sips of Haitian cola every day.' This was all the baby had had for nourishment for the first month of its life.

"It's a long, slow process to substitute new principles of nutrition and agricultural practices when the people's beliefs have been instilled in them for centuries."

—Miss Elaine Frey, a graduate of GC's division of nursing, who studied in the Haiti Seminar for Nurses last summer, speaking in a convocation address, "My Experience in Haiti." She is a public school nurse in the Elkhart (Ind.) school system.

"When the future historian writes the chronicle of our time, I think he's going to ask some disturbing questions.

"For example, why did the United States give nearly 2 per cent of its Gross National Product through Marshall Plan aid to rebuild Europe from 1948 to 1952, but today our GNP is much larger and yet we give only 0.5 per cent of it for the peoples of Africa, Asia, and Latin America?

"Was it more important to help those parts of the world that once were rich and made poor because of war than to help those parts which have been poor for a long time?

"Was it more important to help those who had white skin than to help those with yellow or black?

"The real problem of the poorer nations is 'capital shortage.' Part of this is the lack of electric generators and power plants, and factories. But actually from the the standpoint of development, what is needed first is 'social overhead capital.'

"By this I mean such items as better educational facilities. This requires money, too, because buildings have to be built and teachers have to be paid long before the individual who is taught actually can be productive.

"The Mennonite Church has a marvelous opportunity through its Teachers Abroad Program to be engaged in the production of some of this social overhead capital.

"And, through Mennonite Economic Development Associates, some Mennonite businessmen have contributed as a group in excess of $380,000 to the economic development of some of the developing areas of the world."

—Dr. Carl Kreider, dean of Goshen College, speaking in a convocation address, "The Politics and Economics of World Hunger"

"Today we need men and women like you here at Goshen College—persons who are prepared and who have a passion for making Christ known.

"Our church is still close enough to the soil and has a deep enough interest in what goes on in rural areas that its young perosns can

C. P. Martin '27 Is '68 Fund Chairman

Clifford P. Martin '27, former president of the Alumni Association, will be national chairman of the 1968 Alumni Annual Fund.

Active in the Alumni Association for many years, Mr. Martin is now serving his second consecutive four-year term as the Association's representative to the Mennonite Board of Education. He was president of the Association from 1938 to 1942 and again from 1947 to 1949.

A banker by profession, Mr. Martin is vice chairman of the board of the St. Joseph Valley Bank, of Elkhart, Ind. For more than 40 years he has been a leader in banking in Northern Indiana and he served as president of the First Old State Bank for 19 years, until it was merged with the St. Joseph Valley Bank last December 31.

After graduation from the College, he continued his education by completing all the standard and advanced courses of the American Institute of Banking.

President of Economic Association

Mr. Martin has served Northern Indiana in a wide variety of activities. He is currently president of the Northern Indiana Economic Development Association, treasurer and member of the board of Greencroft Villa, Inc., and treasurer of Junto.

He is also a member of the boards of Oaklawn Psychiatric Center Foundation, the Downtown Business Association, Elkhart Improvements, Inc., and Pioneer Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

He has been president and treasurer of the Elkhart Chamber of Commerce, president and member of the board of the Elkhart Kiwanis Club and of United Community Services of Elkhart County, treasurer and member of the board of Elcona Country Club, and treasurer of the Elkhart Lions Club.

A Family of Alumni

Mrs. Martin, the former Erma Schertz, was graduated from Goshen College in '32. The Martins' son and daughter are also GC graduates—Robert in '62 and Janette (Mrs. Ned Deihl) in '60.

The elder Martins also have two grandchildren.

GOAL FOR '68 IS $100,000 PLUS . . .

The goal for the 1968 Alumni Annual Fund for Goshen College is $100,000 plus one-half of a two-year goal of $95,000 for endowment.

Mr. Martin said he encourages alumni to indicate that their gifts be "undesignated" to the '68 Fund. Thus, the College has maximum freedom in using them for any facet of the educational program—from mowing the lawn to remodeling classrooms.

The Alumni Fund at Goshen College has increased in size from $56,000 in 1964 to $105,000 in 1967—an increase of 87 per cent in four years. Mr. Martin said the increase is gratifying to him as well as to the College and he trusts alumni will continue to demonstrate their loyalty to their Alma Mater, both by giving and encouraging others to give.

The 47-member A Cappella Choir, directed by Dwight E. Weldy, will present a program of sacred music for 13 congregations on an intensive 11-day tour, beginning March 22.

To travel more than 2,400 miles this spring, the Choir will join in the worship services of churches in Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, and Iowa.

The tour program will also be given at a number of churches in Northern Indiana after April 1.

Frosh Take Time for Toys

(Left) Randy Schertz and Marti Hess were among more than 50 freshmen who renovated 10 large cartons of clothes and toys to enable deserving families to have a happier Christmas.

Mr. Schertz, of Eureka, Ill., is president of the freshman class, and Miss Hess, of Terre Hill, Pa., was chairman of the traditional freshman project to make others happy at Christmas.

Collecting from whoever would make the items available, the students washed and pressed mountains of clothing, painted wagons, washed, dried, and re-ribboned 25 teddy bears, sewed and dressed 14 Barbie dolls, mended other doll clothes, and made pieces for many puzzles and pictures.

Next Fall Begins Celebration

Celebration of Goshen College's diamond jubilee anniversary will begin next fall.

A special year of events, set for the school year 1968-69, will commemorate 75 years of service to the Mennonite Church since the founding of the school in 1894.

Planning for the dedication of the Harold and Wilma Good Library, and for many lecturers, music programs, and open house events is now under way.

Ministers School Next Month

Goshen College's School for Ministers, set for February 6-23, will include "Studies in Genesis," "Petrine Epistles," and "Contemporary Theology."

Also planned are studies in Dutch-Russian Mennonite history, a course in leadership training, and two series of special lectures.

Director for the school will be Dr. J. C. Wenger. Tuition is free in appreciation for what the ministers are doing for the church. There is a nominal charge for room and board. Reservations are now being accepted by the director.

Hartzler Music Now in Library

J. D. HARTZLER last month shelved his music collection at GC. Here Nick Klaus talks to him about one of the rare copies of "Urania."

J. D. Hartzler's collection of more than 2500 hymn books, tune books, and works on hymnology, altogether valued well over $7,000 and in demand by research libraries across the nation, was recently acquired by Goshen College at a figure considerably under its value, owing to his generosity.

In the last year Mr. Hartzler had received offers from 18 universities and conservatories, but he said, "I would have felt badly if it wouldn't have gone to Goshen College. As a Mennonite school, it has always been strong on music and singing. I am glad to make it a part of my contribution here."

Housed in a special area on the third floor of the Harold and Wilma Good Library, near the Mennonite Historical Library, the collection includes the oldest American tune book (published in 1761), a 1566 French Psalter, and one of the 15 extant copies of James Lyon's "Urania," valued in excess of $1,500. Lyon vies with Francis Hopkinson as America's first composer.

A cappella music makes up the largest part of the collection. Other parts of the collection include early American church music, camp-meeting hymns, "shaped note" songs (often with folk tunes), Sunday-school music, Gospel songs, and class books from which the rudiments of music were taught up to the end of the first quarter of the 20th century.

A resident of Wellman, Iowa, Mr. Hartzler has been collecting materials for a half century, and has given much valuable help to numerous researchers and doctoral candidates in writing dissertations on aspects of American music history.

Overseers Elect Year's Officers

At its meeting last month, the Board of Overseers elected officers for the coming year and welcomed three new members to the Board.

Elected were Dwight V. Yoder, of Akron, Pa., president; the Rev. Willis L. Breckbill, of Canton, Ohio, vice-president; and Dr. Daniel Hertzler, secretary.

New members to the Board are Daniel E. Kauffman, co-ordinator of federal programs for Southmoreland school system, of Scottdale, Pa.; the Rev. Nelson E. Kauffman, secretary for home missions and evangelism for Mennonite Board of Missions, of Elkhart, Ind.; and Dr. Norman Loux, medical director of the Penn Foundation for Mental Health, of Sellersville, Pa.

Leaving the Board, all charter members who have given eight years of service, were Charles H. Hoeflich, president of Union National Bank and Trust Company, of Souderton, Pa.; the Rev. John H. Mosemann, pastor of College Mennonite Church, of Goshen, Ind.; and Orrin J. Smucker, co-ordinator of the Division of Special Services, of the Board of Education, of Columbus, Ohio.

Continuing members of the Board, in addition to the officers, are Mrs. Ernest Clemens, of Lansdale, Pa.; Erie J. Sauder, of Archbold, Ohio; Glen E. Yoder, of Shipshewana, Ind.; Howard C. Yoder, of Wooster, Ohio; the Rev. Richard J. Yordy, of Champaign, Ill.; and Daniel Yutzy, of Buffalo, N.Y.

The main emphasis of the recent meeting related to the Biblical Seminary.

Wabash Teacher 16 Years

Mrs. Edward (Genevieve M. Casida) Cochley, of Wabash, Ind., is in her 16th year of teaching school in Wabash. She teaches Grade 1. M.A., Ball State U., '67. Attends First Methodist church. ## ’48-ers Respond to Alumni Poll

Mrs. Clifford W. (Lois Blosser) Amstutz, of Hesston, Kan., writes, “We were in agricultural mission work in Nigeria for five years. Had to evacuate suddenly due to internal war. Arrived in United States September 9. We lived in a bush village among non-English speaking Nigerians. Previous I had worked with women doing Bible study, cooking, sewing and community projects. Tried to encourage use of proper medicine and hospital facilities. Our three-year-old and new baby were a pleasure for our family, and a great delight to Nigerians—they love babies. We had learned to enjoy eating some of their very peppery foods. Nearly every night we could hear them drumming and dancing and singing. Our own night watch often entertained us. It was extremely distressing to leave abruptly our work with no adequate persons there to carry on. To date we have no communication with the people we left. The problems in Nigeria are huge and we have a great concern for the future there. At present we find it a bit difficult to adjust to living and working here when our hearts are so much in Nigeria. We are resettling in Hesston. Cliff ’50 is working for the college and I shall be caring for our family.” The Amstutzes have five children—14, 12, 11, 3 years, and 10 months.

My wife assists in home visitation and teaches English at the Y.M.C.A. for elementary grade children, and their mothers, and at our home in a combined English conversation and Bible class. I work with pastors of six congregations in central Hokkaido, teach at Eastern Hokkaido Bible School, and serve on the conference executive committee.” . . . James H. and Beula (Mast) Bumstead, of Riverside, Calif., write that Jim is senior engineer and supervisor of 25 engineers and draftsmen for the water department of Riverside. He has designed water reservoirs and filter plants. His additional study was at the U. of California, ’51-’60; he is a professional civil engineer. They attend Union Church. Beula teaches a class of Indians once a week, an activity she began six years ago. They write, “We open our home for prayer and Bible study and role play, the latter a type of Christian therapy. We work in P.T.A., engineers’ club, and Sunday-school.” Five children.

Mrs. Allen (Eunice Hartman) Byler, of Belleville, Pa., is a farmer’s wife in “beautiful Kishacoquillas Valley.” She is a substitute teacher, mother of three sons and one daughter, substitute Sunday-school teacher, and chorister for Barrville church. She taught four years at a girls’ school in Ethiopia; she and her husband were missionaries there for 11 years. Additional study, B.A., Goshen College, ’56.

FINAL REPORT: Alumni Giving '66-'67

President Reports on the 1967 Fund

It is a pleasure to review the achievements of my fellow alumni in the annual fund of the year just gone by. The gifts total as well as the participation achieved are most gratifying.

Truly, the giving of money is one of the few measurable ways for alumni to respond to their Alma Mater. But Dr. Howard Mumford Jones, Pulitzer Prize-winning observer of American mores, has said that if the annual philanthropic gift is the only tie between an institution and its alumni, it is a poor one. But the gift once given frees the giver to explore the many other avenues of support.

A college is, after all, an intellectual institution. And the college-alumnus relation has, therefore, many components beyond the financial one. Beside money, the benefits that alumni can provide their college include (1) new students, (2) interpretation to those not closely acquainted with the school, and (3) advice to its leaders. With respect to the latter, alumni may, by their own resolution of purpose, "criticize the college," but constructively and without fanfare or publicity.

With respect to all three above, I invite alumni to see, increasingly, the importance of, and to cherish, the traditions and ideals of Goshen College. The energy expended by each alert alumnus in this activity is of unestimable value.

He appreciates the many Goshen young persons who go forth each year to serve Christ unselfishly and to be loyal to Him in many, many professions and positions.

He appreciates the new educational program at Goshen and its reaffirmation of the school's basic values.

I could name many more. Most importantly, he cares honestly and sincerely about "Culture for Service" and the entire Goshen College community. And he gives time and labor, along with substance, that Christian higher education may be available for the generations of students that will desire it in the years ahead.

Sincerely,

Frank Ulrich

New Record Highs Reached Last Year

I am pleased to report new record "highs" reached in the 1967 Alumni Fund. A total of $105,147.03 was contributed by 3,001 alumni, representing participation by 15 per cent more persons this year than last. Since 1965, contributions have increased from $80,138 to $105,147, and the number of contributing alumni has increased from 2,084 to 3,001.

Congratulations to you alumni who were the state, area or district chairmen, and volunteers in the 1967 Alumni Fund. And our sincere thanks to all who contributed a gift or made a pledge. The success of the 1967 Fund is the result of your fine co-operation and involvement.

The records we have set this past year are a step forward in assuming our responsibility as alumni of Goshen College. Our role is clear as we see the importance of making available for students an opportunity to experience Christian higher education.

The Alumni Fund is a prime source of unrestricted money for the College to meet day by day expenses not covered by student tuition. Our gifts help Goshen College to provide a quality educational program and also to maintain ideals valid to "Culture for Service."

Again I thank all of you who took part in the 1967 Fund. Your gift indicates loyalty to the College and confidence in its future.

Best wishes,

Larry R. Yoder

Is Your Name on the Honor Roll Of the 1967 Alumni Fund?

Below, listed by class, are the names of the contributors to the '67 Alumni Annual Fund for Goshen College. It covers the period from July 1, 1966, to June 30, 1967, which is the fiscal year for Goshen College.

The list as printed was carefully prepared but there may be omissions or errors. For these we apologize. Keeping accurate records for more than 11,000 alumni scattered around the world is not a simple task and your help is always welcome.

It is especially helpful to be informed of changes of address at the time such change becomes effective. Marriages, births, deaths and graduate or professional achievements are recorded when the information is made available to the alumni office. The alumni files are a source of limited information about alumni and you are welcome to use this service anytime it may be helpful in personal relationships.

Participation in the Alumni Annual Fund is continuing to increase each year. This rate of growth will soon raise the level of participation to the national average of 35 per cent for private church-related colleges like Goshen. Alumni of Goshen College are uniting in a fine way to meet the challenge of support needed for higher education.

Your continued interest, concern, and sharing are important in providing a quality program of higher education for each generation of students at Goshen College.

Respectfully submitted,

John H Liechty

John H. Liechty
Director of Alumni Relations
